PROBLEM CHILDREN

May Be Dealt With By Treating Parents

"In most fairy tales so far written I have noticed that parents are invariably good and kind while children are often wicked, but in real life the position is very often reversed, though the individuals concerned are blissfully unaware of it."

This dictum was uttered by Dr. D. R. MacCallman in the course of a paper read to the educational science section of the British Association, at Aberdeen.

The Victorians, declared the doctor, had made adult adjustment—the establishment of oneself as an independent and useful citizen—extraordinarily difficult and the majority of the population enjoyed intellectual freedom only. Intellectually adults, they were still emotionally at their mother's knees.

Marriage, which ought to be the final adjustment, was in many cases undertaken for an infantile reason. On the other hand, most marital problems which resulted in separation or divorce would be settled if the parties concerned were subjected to attitude therapy by a skilled worker.

Dr. MacCallman said that treatment of the parent was sometimes the most promising way of dealing with the problem of the child.

Some of the points from the doctor's paper were:—

Over-protection is more often the cause of delinquency in a child than rejection. In fact, it seems disastrous for one relative to love another too much.

It will be necessary to educate the public as quickly as possible to the fact that all "badness" is purposive—that there is always a reason for a child's temper, tantrums, or stealing, and that something can be done about it to the same extent that a broken limb or a case of pneumonia can be treated; that is, the personality can be given the best opportunity of making its own adjustment.

MOTHER, LOVE "DANGEROUS".

Mother love may be beautiful, but it is also dangerous. Many mothers who laud themselves for the beauty of their love for their children are in truth vampires who destroy the personalities of their children.

The aetiology of mental disorders does seem to date from infancy. The State would save vast sums of public money and humanity would be saved untold misery if preventative medicine were more widely organised in this sphere.

Dr. Vaughan, late headmaster of Rugby, spoke of what he described as the contemptuous way mother love had been spoken of. Mother love, he said, was sometimes mistaken, but men could think of it only as one of the redeeming things in their lives.

Dr. Rex Knight, Aberdeen, speaking about child clinics, said, "a doting mother, who will not realise that children become adults only by acquiring emotional independence and a sense of personal responsibility, can so tie her children's affection to herself that, unless treatment intervenes, the child never grows up emotionally, but remains infantile all his or her life."

Dr. Knight mentioned several cases of abnormal children and said in one case a girl who stole in buying sweets which she haughtily distributed to her schoolfellows. This led to the discovery that she and her companions knew that she was illegitimate and that she was ashamed of the fact and resentful of the attitude is aroused in others.

"She stole in order to be able for a fleeting moment to patronise these 'down on her' added Dr. Knight.

THE USES OF A LEMON

If your milk has turned, and has not been boiled, add a little lemon juice to it, heat slowly till curd separates from whey, strain into a colander or on to a sieve covered with cheese cloth, drain, add a little cream and salt, form into little cakes, and serve as cream cheese.

Milk curdled with lemon juice, by the way, will make light scones and cakes, and is much better for the purpose than plain milk. Lemon juice and water will clean cane-seated chairs and straw hats if they are not too dirty.

FOOD FALLACIES

Too Many Tins and Too Little Greens

Common weakness in working-class diet were pointed out by Leslie Harris when he addressed the Industrial Welfare Society at Oxford recently.

The average kind of middle-class diet taken in this country was adequate, he said, provided that four conditions were complied with. It must be reasonably varied, one good protein dish must be given daily—i.e. a reasonable portion of meat, fish, or cheese—fresh fruit or salad should be eaten daily, and a common tendency to be sparing with milk must be avoided.

The most usual deficiencies in working-class diets were:—

Too little vegetables, fresh fruits, milk, butter, and eggs taken.

Too much food tinned, preserved, refined, dried or compressed. More brown bread might be eaten instead of white.

Growing children often given insufficient "body-building food."

There was still a very wide gap between the well-to-do and the industrial classes in such matters as hygiene, in the incidence of disease, and in the death-rate. It was not clear whether as nutritional or industrial welfare workers, he said, he was bridging of that gap.

THRILLS IN AFRICA

Engineer's Experiences in Jungle

Struggling through grass as tall as trees; encountering a lion while unarmed; crossing rivers on tree trunks; spending the night among herds of elephants—these are some of the experiences, not of an explorer or big game hunter, but of an educational "missionary."

He is Mr. J. Steele, of the British Institute of Engineering Technology, who was sent to Africa to deal with the hundreds of inquiries from men in the remote outposts of civilisation, anxious to train in their spare time for British engineering degrees.

It was to maintain contact with present students and to give advice to others anxious to embark on new careers that Mr. Steele undertook a 3,500 miles tour through Rhodesia, Northern Transvaal, and the Zambesi Valley.

"The roads over which I passed," says Mr. Steele in a report received in London, "are filled with surprises for the unwary traveller. The road soon finished and mingled with the bush, and I had to clear my own way across boulders and through elephant grass, that rose 12 to 15 feet in height. Descending the valley of the Zambesi the grass grew so high that the sky was dark overhead. It was as though I were driving through an endless tunnel."

"To complicate matters further, the elephants had cleared a path for themselves, leaving trees leaning sideways in their wake. Some of these trees had rotted and left stumps in the road grown over with grass. In addition, the parts over which the elephants had wandered were pitted as though with meteor holes."

HOME MADE PONTOON.

"On reaching the banks of the Zambesi I had to wait all night till the Greek trader, who runs a home-made pontoon there, came to fetch me across. Elephants were near at hand so I turned up the windows of the sedan—a flimsy enough shelter between the elephants and myself."

"The next morning the pontoon arrived. It was constructed from two canoes, which were hollowed out trunks of trees patched together with corrugated iron and lashed with tree grass."

"After another couple of hundred miles of the type of country I have described I struck the Great North Road. It was simply two tracks leading North, pitted and hunched."

"One evening, before reaching the Copper Belt, with my lights full on I came across something that appeared like a jackal to me, but I was too tired to reach for my gun, and thought to run the creature down. It sat quietly on its haunches waiting, while it swept the ground with its tail. I accelerated, and, to my surprise, the animal held its ground. In the lights of the car it grew suddenly enormous in size, and I saw that it was a huge lion. I hastily left the road and waited for the lion to depart."

Mr. Steele said that the type of courses most popular with men in lonely outposts are civil and constructional engineering, surveying, mechanical and electrical engineering, wireless, radio, and, strangely enough, television.

PRESS CENSORSHIP

"Menacing Challenge,"
Says Institute President

"The demands upon the talent, foresight, and judgment of the journalist are ever increasing," said Mr. Henry J. Whittick, in the course of his presidential address at the conference of the Institute of Journalists at Blackpool.

"I belong to a school of journalism which does not believe either in sensationalism or stunts" but sets its faith on news that is carefully sifted and accurately presented," he said.

He deprecated the "absurd spirit of competition to be first with the news," without always being sure that news is really being sent forth.

"Education comes by reading and the power of the printed word remains unchallenged and indisputable. It is for us to maintain this supremacy by the thoroughness and reliability of our work."

Referring to "the extent to which the freedom of the Press has been encroached upon," Mr. Whittick said, "This is an issue which constitutes a menacing challenge—a challenge which we shall not shirk."

A free Press was the rock of the liberty of the people. "The world, slowly recovering from the shattering effects of a war unparalleled in history, is searching for light. Each nation desiring to sit under its own roof tree has become self-centred and super-sensitive, and the resultant acute nationalism implies an uncharted sea with rocks and shoals abounding."

It was, therefore, vital, maintained Mr. Whittick, that the Press should "be able to throw the searching beams of truth across the waters."

"IRON RULE"

To know that two-thirds of the world's people were under the iron rule of censorship must arouse in this free country the gravest misgiving.

Mrs. and Miss Goebbels, mother and sister of Germany's Propaganda Minister, out for a morning stroll.

"Official versions handed out to a muzzled Press become a dope, evil in its effects, leaving the victims a pitiable spectacle, because those in whom freedom of conscience has been implanted are left in a condition worse than that of a slave enchained."

The speaker paid tribute to the correspondents of British newspapers who had handled foreign news during the critical times. The fact that some journals were banned would not, he said, prevent correspondents from doing their duty, often at great personal risk, as events had proved. "British correspondents have indeed upheld the great traditions of our Press in circumstances of acute stress."

Mr. Whittick was of the opinion that the use of names in news columns had been somewhat overdone in recent years. "While the signing of articles is amply justified on occasion," he said, "I sometimes long for the wholesome, effective, and able anonymous articles with which we used to be satisfied. There is sometimes too much infusion of individual views instead of a reflection of the considered opinion of the paper itself."

One cause for gratification, in Mr. Whittick's view, was the close attention newspapers were giving to the "increasing tendency to issue threats at law on the flimsiest and most vexatious pretexts. Adventures of this kind must be thwarted. No doubt we could encourage illustrations of this contemptible practice, and we all trust that a firm stand will be maintained by all newspapers."

HEAVY RESPONSIBILITIES.

Turning sympathetically to "the very grave difficulties" confronting their colleagues consequent upon the dispute in the newspaper industry in the Irish Free State, Mr. Whittick expressed "the sincere hope that no permanent damage will result to newspaper activities there. We have witnessed in those incidents in Ireland the serious

GIRL TURNS
METAMORPHOSISNOW "SHE" CAN BE
A FATHER.

Lille, France, Oct. 3.

The strange case of Alice Henriette Acces, a peasant girl who has turned into a boy, has been confirmed by a doctor here, but for the time being "Henriette" must remain a "girl" until her birth certificate can be changed from "Female" to "Male".

The "girl" was newly baptised Henri Acces, following a decision by Dr. Robert Minne that "she" had turned into a male youth in one of the most unusual medical cases in history.

The youth, despite the doctor's decision, however, was obligated to appear in a girl's robes for communion at the town of Lens, where for years he, as a "she" sang in the choir in a suspiciously cracked soprano. She must continue to wear girl's clothing until a formal sex certificate can be delivered to the Town Hall.

The youth, now 16 years old, commemorated his becoming a male after 10 years as a girl by smoking a cigarette and doing his father's trousers. He asked the correspondent whether it was legally probable that his peasant parents' "daughter's" dowry, or dowry on marriage, remains payable.

Dr. Minne, the family physician, confirmed to the United Press that Henriette had undergone a metamorphosis.

"Henri's masculinity is unquestionable," said Dr. Minne, "I shall recommend an operation to make the metamorphosis complete. I think it entirely possible that the operation will enable Henri to become a father."

Medical opinion generally was reported to be that the youth can marry and be the father of children in one or two years. He has had a moustache since last Christmas.—United Press.

IN HARNESS AT 74

Ben Tillett's Enthusiasm
For Trade Unionism

Mr. Ben Tillett, the veteran of the Trade Union movement and a former M.P., recently celebrated his 74th birthday by attending a dinner, in company with a number of prominent Trade Union leaders, at the National Trade Union Club, of which he has lately been chairman.

Mr. Tillett was a distinguished visitor at the recent Trades Union Congress at Weymouth. He has been present at the Congress since 1890, formerly for many years as an official leader of the dockers. At Belfast six years ago he was president of the Congress.

Interviewed, Mr. Tillett said—"I have, since my early days, had a love for the great Trade Union movement, and early in my career I became attached to it. I have never lost my interest in it, and I hope I shall remain in contact with it until the end comes."

"I think I can claim to be one of the oldest of the Trade Union leaders who have been present at and officially connected with the annual T.U.C. There are only a few of us now over 70. Others are Sir James Sexton, Sir Ben Turner, Mr. Will Thorne, M.P.; Mr. W. Straker, of the Northumberland miners. There is also, of course, Mr. Peter Lee, of Durham, the late president of the Miners' Federation, who is 70."

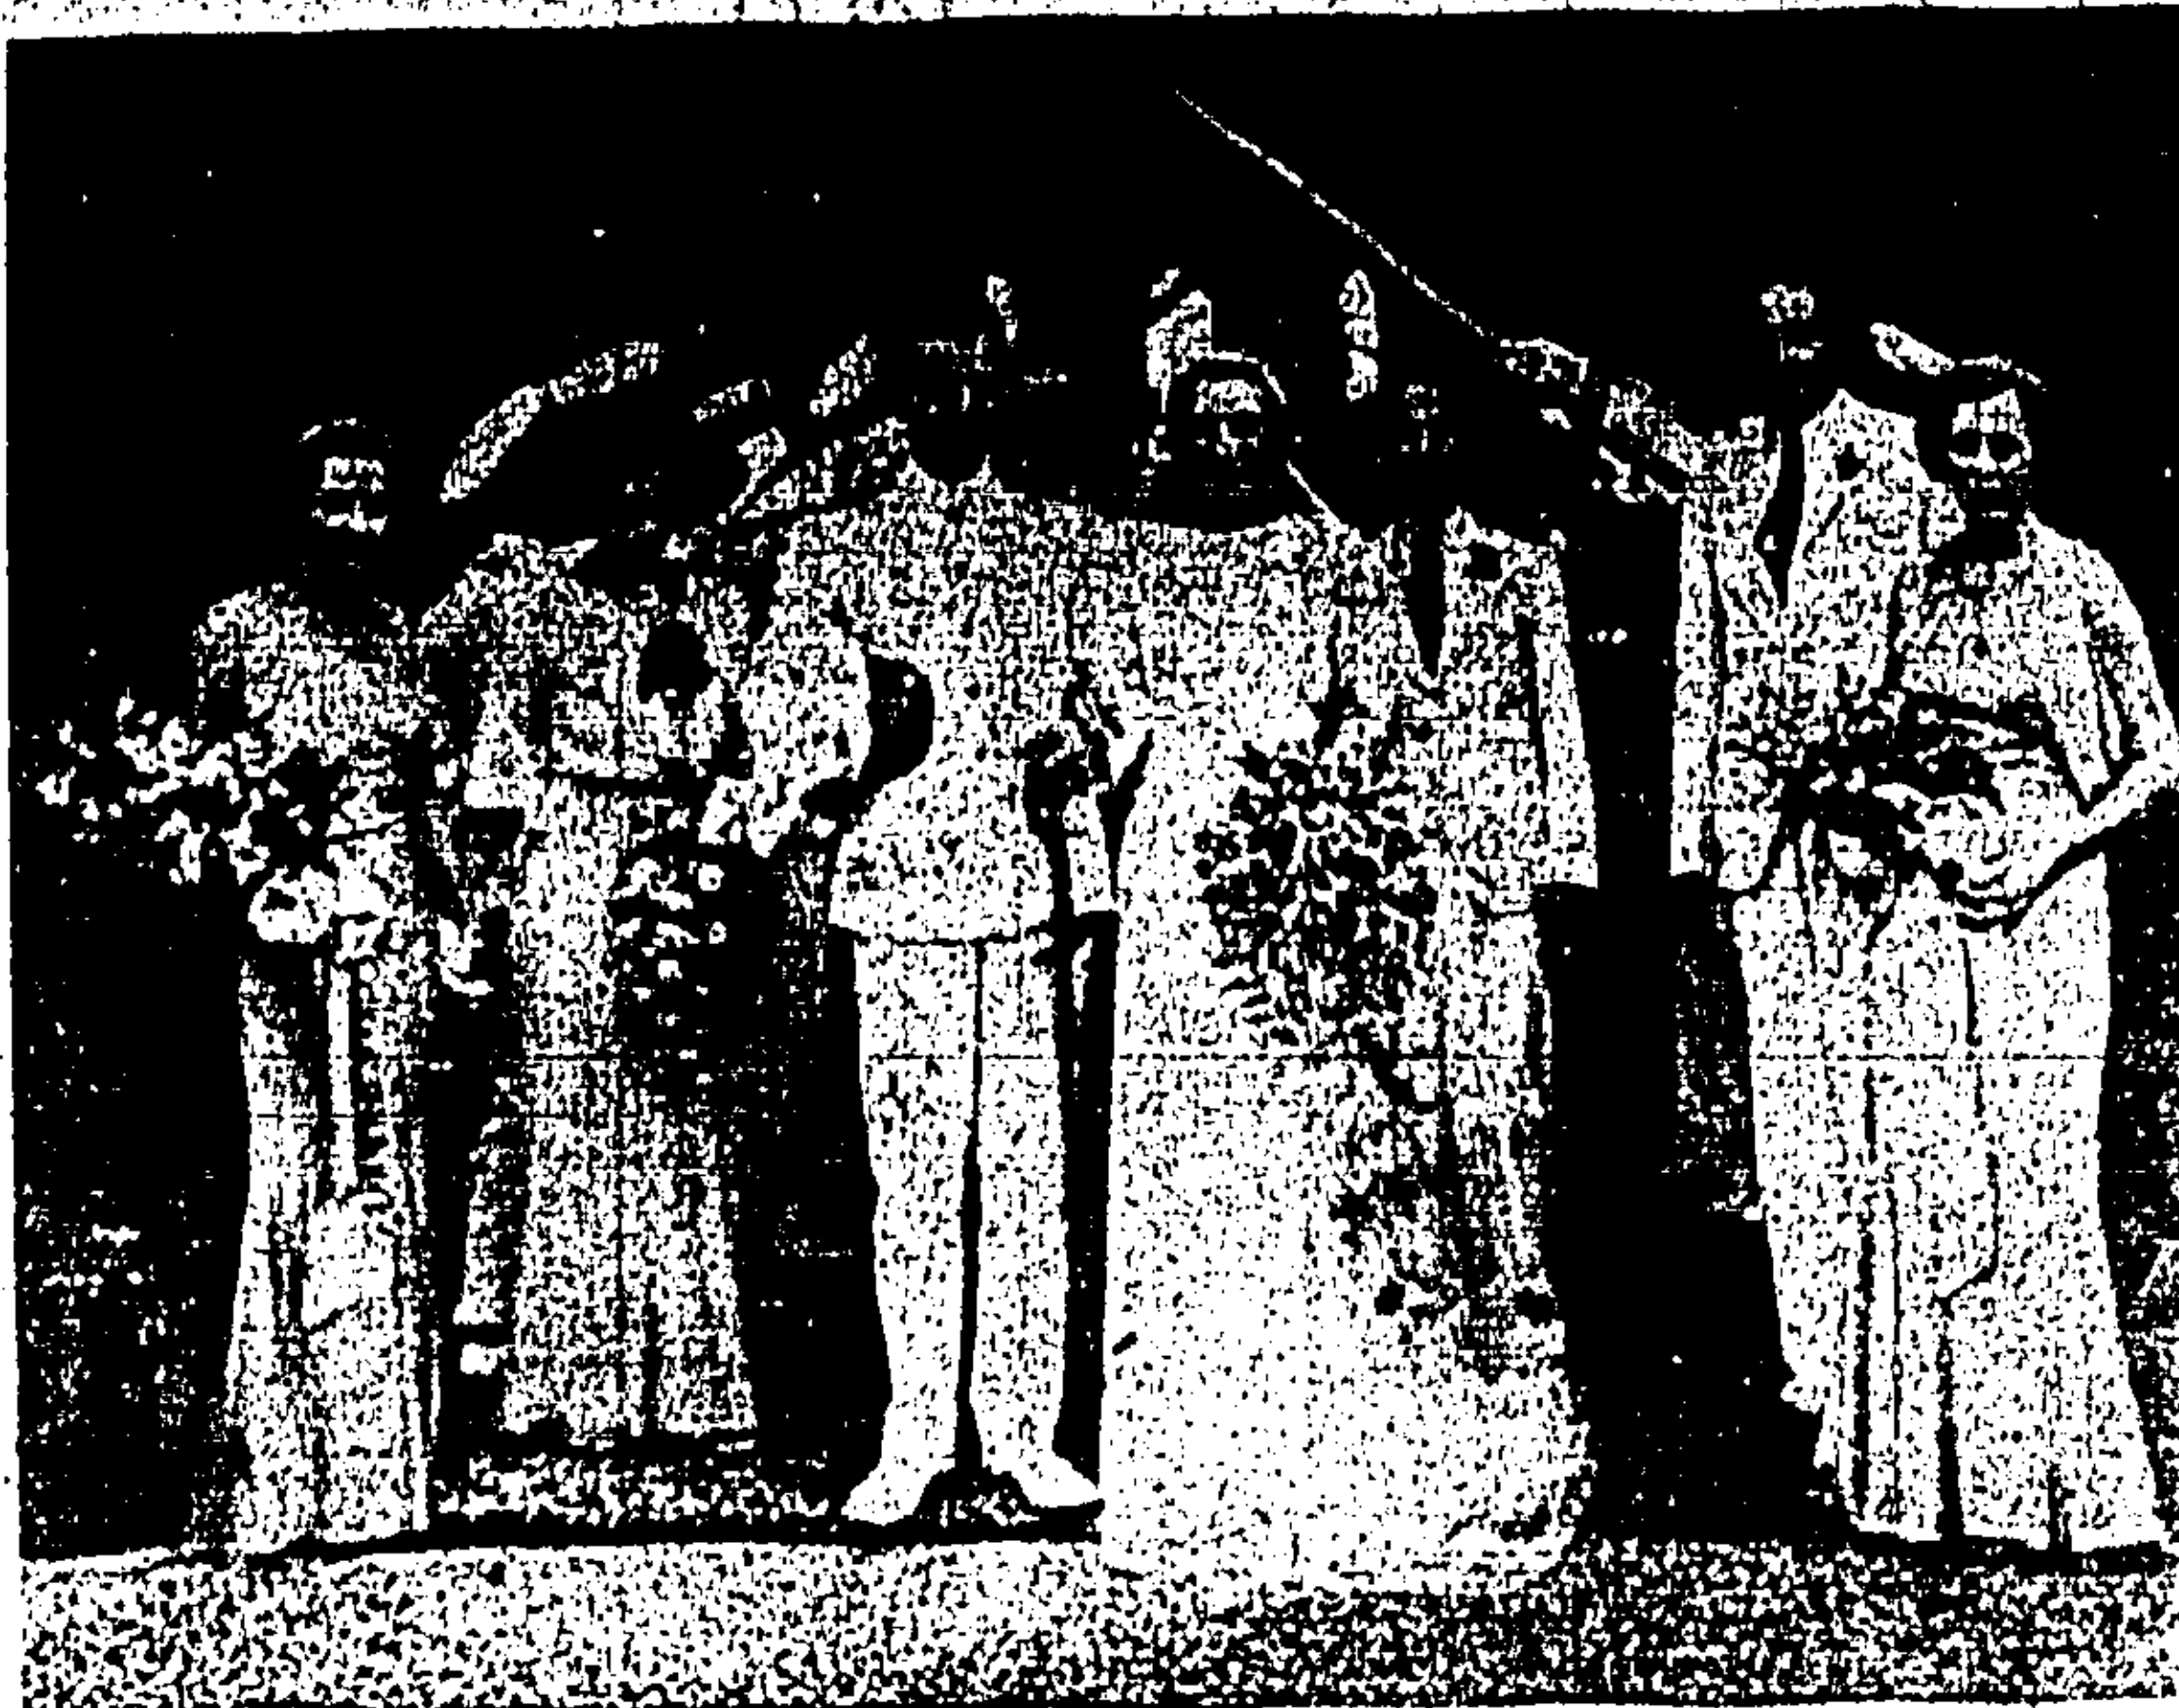

"I hope to remain in harness in the cause of the workers and the Labour movement. My one hope is that I shall never lose the regard and esteem of my old friends in the Trade Union and Labour ranks."

effects due to the absence of newspapers."

He recalled, as significant now, the line which a journal in America, in 1899, had under its title: "This is published to prevent false reports."

Looking forward to the future, Mr. Whittick concluded—"I feel that we can view the prospects with confidence in the greatness of our task. Those who conduct our newspapers set a laudable example of generous devotion to duty. The triumphs of the Press are those of principle and justice and a high sense of public responsibility."

"The Press remains an instrument of social progress, ever ready to discharge its heavy responsibilities. Journalists are held in the highest respect for their efficiency and service and their consistency in following the golden rules of fairness and impartiality, well-considered opinion, and a sense of duty to readers and the community."

Paymaster-Lieutenant John Harvey McGregor, Royal Navy, leaving Holy Trinity Cathedral with his attractive bride, Miss Audrey Pamela Brooke, after their marriage in Shanghai. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Wynyard Brooke, well known Shanghai residents. The couple left aboard the Hector for England.

OUR CHERISHED
BELIEFSLord Raglan Does Some
"De-Bunking"

A good many of the cherished beliefs and habits of mankind came in for some severe handling by Lord Raglan, addressing the anthropology section of the British Association at Aberdeen.

Lord Raglan, in a paper on the cult of animals, said ferocity was never attributed to a lamb because it was so absurd, but really it was no more absurd than the attribution of wisdom to an owl.

Dealing with symbols, he said that it would take an hour for anyone to attempt to explain why the olive branch was a symbol of peace.

Probably, he added, psychologists would not agree with his views on symbolism, but he believed they were like men who found a tennis ball at the bottom of a rabbit-hole and from that concluded that tennis balls originated in rabbit-holes. Psychologists, started from the wrong end.

Other points from Lord Raglan's speech were:—

It is no more natural for a man to eat cooked foods than for a dog to eat dog biscuits.

Hindus must not eat a sacred cow, Jews must not eat the pig, and the English must not eat the sacred horse.

Even to-day some people refuse to eat the hare because they believe that the souls of women go into hares. Connected with this belief is the one that witches take the form of hares.

It is not the sight or the taste but the idea of eating the animal which fills a person with horror.

I have never heard of anyone who plays with the idea that roast mutton would make him sheepish.

It is no more natural for a man to wear clothes than it is for an organ-grinder's monkey.

Talking is unnatural. A child learns to talk by imitation.

Magic is a clockwork toy wound up 2,000 years ago and is taking an unconscionably long time to run down.

HONGKONG'S AERIAL
FUTURE

Those who are watching aviation developments as they affect the Far East will have noted with interest the strong plea made before the U. S. Federal Aviation Commission by Major Rickenbacker for the inauguration of a trans-Pacific passenger and mail service. Whilst there are difficulties to be overcome in establishing such a project, they are no manner of means insuperable. As Major Rickenbacker points out, the Atlantic has been spanned, and there is no reason to suppose that, provided a real effort were made, the Pacific cannot also be conquered. The value of such a service could hardly be over-estimated, bringing about, as it would, far closer and more rapid contact between the East and the West. With the United States and Japan working in close co-operation, the way would be opened up for transforming this dream of many years past into an actuality. The possibilities of such a development are not without interest to Hongkong. They will be all the more readily appreciated if it is borne in mind that the day cannot be far distant when this Colony will take its rightful place as a link in the Empire's aerial services. It has long been known that the Imperial Airways definitely contemplates an extension of its service from Singapore to Hongkong, and, as His Excellency the Governor indicated in the Legislative Council last week, both the Imperial Government and the Hongkong Government attach the utmost importance to developments along these lines. Unfortunately, no definite agreement has yet been reached with countries over whose territory it is hoped to be able to secure flying rights, but there is no reason to suppose that such obstacles as are being encountered in this direction will not be overcome. When the link between Singapore and Hongkong is forged, there is every possibility of Imperial Airways endeavouring to interest itself in connections with Shanghai and, eventually, with Japan as well. So much has, indeed, already been indicated. Should these ideas come to fruition, and the suggested trans-Pacific service also be instituted, it will be seen that there is in prospect in the days ahead a complete circling of the globe, with Hongkong figuring prominently on the route. It may take some years before this vision is translated into concrete action, but the possibilities are well worth keeping in mind. All of which

NOTES OF THE DAY

SAFE FRONTIERS

Generally speaking, when a German and a Frenchman got together in the past they would find something to argue about. Not so the brilliant scientists who have succeeded in inventing one of the most humbly horrible weapons the world has ever known. They are French and German, but instead of contributing a quarrel to history, they have given us the ray-gun. It sounds incredible, but the thing is apparently true. By turning on the power, it is now possible to direct a "shot" of light from a weapon which will, when it strikes a man, stun him completely. The inventors appear to believe that the ray-gun will be able to reach almost any distance and will enable a country to throw up a barrage of concentrated light through which no living thing can pass, and still retain its consciousness. Presumably, if the current were just a little stronger it would kill.

WORTH ADVERTISING

Whether the weapon will turn out to be as effective as the inventors claim it will be, remains to be seen. But aviators in future wars will have something besides "Archie," the familiar old anti-aircraft guns, tracer-bullets and gas to contend with if the new French weapon is any good. They will have the unpleasant suspicion that someone half a hundred miles away may be turning a light-gun on and sweeping the sky in their vicinity, and they will know that if they fly within its reach they will be most certainly doomed. Unless by that time there is some system evolved to counteract the ray-gun. If it does nothing else, however, the ray-gun will possibly deter any belligerent group from thinking too seriously of crossing a neighbouring frontier. The ray-gun is something that should be thoroughly advertised.

TOWARDS SAME GOAL

If the Franco-German inventors have given France something which will protect her frontiers, and thus given Europe further cause to hope for a continuation of peace, others are working towards the same goal from other directions. The American and Japanese delegates are on their way to London to participate in the three-power discussions to the end that the present naval treaties may be revised and naval armaments reduced. At the same time, Mr. William Green, of the American Federation of Labour, is talking about attempting to weld the British and American labour organisations into one whole, for the purpose of throwing the weight of influence of the working mass into the scale whenever war threatens to upset the world's equilibrium. In either of these instances much may be accomplished.

UGLY SHACKS

Longer ago than we care to remember, we drew attention to a group of ugly shacks which disfigure the hillside of the island just off the main road at Wanchai Gap. We had then hoped that it would be sufficient to point out the disfigurement and that in time these structures would disappear. But they still persist, and at the moment it seems as if others are in the course of erection. At any rate, there are, in all, in this ravine, eight or nine of these shacks and similar shacks—a blot on the admittedly fine scenery of the locality. To whom they belong, and what precise purpose they serve, we are not quite sure, but common belief is that they are P.W.D. structures. If so, and they are really necessary, it would surely be better that they were replaced by less unsightly erections. We cannot imagine that they are privately owned; if they were, orders for their removal would have been made long ago. Is there any reason why the Government should not conform to standards which it expects others to observe?

A ROYAL TEA

A Royal Tea for 10,000 children and a Royal Gift of an order for 5/- to each of the 16,000 needy people are being planned by the Lord Mayor of Adelaide to coincide with the Duke of Gloucester's visit to that city during his forthcoming tour of Australia. The tea will cost a shilling for each child, and the Lord Mayor hopes to obtain £500 for it from the citizens' Committee formed to arrange His Royal Highness' visit. The wives of men on rations and single unemployed men will be included as recipients of the Royal Gift for which it is hoped to raise £5,000. It will be a happy day for Melbourne!

illustrates the point that Hongkong must be on the alert to work in, at the appropriate moment, with schemes from which it would be sheer folly to remain aloof.

PORTUGAL'S RE-BIRTH
IN DICTATORSHIP

There seemed to be little enough in the coup d'etat in 1926, characterized by The Times then as "a breeze on the Tagus," which ushered in the present regime in Portugal, to lead observers to suppose that that revolt of the Army and Navy against the so-called constitutional governments, was to become the means of saving Portugal from the political and economic confusion then prevailing in that country. The inept methods of the political demagogues were tearing the country asunder, and the Dictatorship that was set up to replace the disastrous constitutional forms of administration came to fill a much needed want.

That was eight years ago. The intervening years have come to show that a Dictatorship can exist and yet be the means of improving the lot of a long-suffering people, maintaining order and stimulating the resources of the country.

If for no other reason than that the Dictatorship has discovered Dr. Oliveira de Salazar, than whom a more level-headed Minister for Finance scarcely exists in any country at the present time, this present regime would have earned the gratitude of the Portuguese nation.

Eight short years have wrought wonders in Portugal and the Portuguese colonies, under the sane and wise leadership of General Carmona, President of the Republic of Portugal, and the whole-hearted co-operation of the several ministers of the Cabinet, and the people of Portugal have come to learn that the Dictatorship has had nothing but the best interests of the nation at heart in taking over the leadership of the nation.

Long and trying experience had led the Portuguese to be sceptical of the Dictatorship in its early days, but the new Government, backed by the Army and the Navy, intended to govern, and it was soon clear that General Carmona and his faithful supporters were making a real effort to improve the situation of the country.

The position of Portugal before those days was once admirably summed up by a leading English paper which stated that "in sixteen years there had been sixteen revolutions and armed rebellions; forty ministries had fallen; over four hundred politicians had been Cabinet Ministers; the number of strikes, bomb outrages, financial scandals, and programmes of reforms was amazing; but the quiet citizens who did not belong to a favoured trade union, to a political club, or to a secret society observed that taxation, the cost of living, and the national debt rose with alarming rapidity, and, in spite of the political excitement provided for him, was seized with an ungrateful disgust which facilitated the coming of the strato-

On the anniversary of the establishment of the Portuguese Republic (October 5) it is fitting that reference should be made to the almost phenomenal changes that have taken place in the last eight years, for the picture of Portugal to-day is one that reflects the greatest credit on the Government and its leaders. The national debt has been funded and the regular publication of financial returns has created confidence among the nations. The old warships have been scrapped and naval reconstruction on a large scale has served to focus the attention of the world on the tremendous possibilities of the Portuguese market, while the programme of national revival has stimulated the attention of the country to the soundness of the Portuguese Government's theory of a doctrine of hard work and financial stability.

President Carmona.

The record of splendid achievement of the country, and recent colonial exhibitions and official encouragement of industry have contributed to demonstrate that Portugal, always capable of producing, is now quickly building up an industrial organization to supply the home and colonial markets and even to compete in other countries.

National reconstruction has contributed not a little to the reduction of unemployment, and this may be seen in the recent port works in many parts of Portugal and the colonies and the carrying out of an extensive programme of road-building through the length and breadth of Portugal and in the colonies as well. The nationally all-important industries of agriculture and fishing, besides countless private enterprises, encouraged by peace and order, have taken on new leases of life, and at no time in the history of the nation have there been so many signs of activity and confidence in the development of the resources of the country. They have all received encouragement and protection. The result is that throughout the country there is evidence of work and the disappearance of civil strife.

It is no wonder, therefore, that the people of Portugal will continue to acclaim General Carmona and Dr. Salazar as true leaders and give them the support that they need to carry on the good work begun and maintained during the last few years for the development of Portugal and in the best interests of the nation. Friends of Portugal will view with increasing satisfaction the many signs of Portugal's new era of political re-establishment and on the anniversary of the Republic will associate themselves with the good wishes that go to Portugal and the Portuguese for the prosperity of the nation and the happiness of its people.—Contributed.

The Very Idea!

HONGKONG FOOT
By Eddie Kelly, Chiropractor

"ABSORBIN" JR., as the alligator said, when he swallowed our son.

Actually, we don't know what put it into our head, unless it's that it's one of the things we've been using lately for our feet.

By now you will have guessed that we have Hongkong Foot.

It's shoes too bad.

We tried to tell the Editor this morning that we had Writer's cramp, but he wouldn't believe us. Got quite nasty about it. Said we were trying to dodge work.

Hongkong Foot is a terrible disease. It's caused by walking about bare-footed and perspiration.

Perspiration is a secondary disease that happens to you during the summer months. It strikes everybody the same way, and even animals get it. How many people, for instance, know that a dog perspires through his pants? The cure for perspiration is to eat plenty of Lifebuoy soap.

Getting back to feet diseases again, we don't see why it should be called Hongkong Foot, unless it's called that because it's the only Interport we can win.

Sort of taking the line that if Shanghai wins the Football, we can have the Foot.

One way of getting rid of Hongkong Foot is to use the 550 guaranteed cures any chemist will sell you.

But the best way is to go and live in Shanghai, and start a local campaign to have the name changed to Shanghai Foot.

Since we've been married we learnt a lot about feet. Especially during the winter months, when the headache comes to bed.

For instance, she often calls us a toad. That's because we take more interest in our Instep than in her new step-ins. Says that, now we're married, we're more interested in our sex than her sex.

We just scorn her. Heel hath no fury like a woman's corn.

Treating a woman like this requires courage. You've got to admit that it's no mean feat.

We've had some terrible arguments about the way she says we neglect her. Says we never admired her figure the way we used to before we were married. Triumphantly pointed out our wedding notice.

"What more do you want?" we asked, and quoted:—"Mrs. Edward Kelly, knee Angelina Whales-tetch!"

Grabbed us by the hair, and tore out huge chunks of it. Grasped her dress to shake her, but had to desist because it tore.

Oh, we could go on like this for days and days, but the Editor says he's had enough of this footling kind of thing.

Besides, we've got to break out once in a while.

FEWER TRAFFIC FATALITIES

LATEST HOME FIGURES ENCOURAGING

London, Oct. 4.

For some time, the Transport Ministry, with the object of impressing on the public the gravity of the traffic problem, have published weekly lists of road fatalities. Many drastic measures have been introduced recently to ensure greater care on the part of road-users, both motorists and pedestrians.

It is too soon to gauge their effect, but the figures published to-day are at least encouraging, for they show that 30 fewer lives were lost on the roads of Britain last week than in the week preceding—131 against 161—and, was the smallest total for the last five months. The number of injured also showed a decrease.—British Wireless.

JAPAN'S POLICIES OPPOSED

KWANTUNG AGITATION ORGANISED

Dairen, Oct. 5.

Agitation, organised by officials of the Kwantung Headquarters in opposition to a plan recently approved by the Japanese government for the reorganisation of the Japanese Administrative system in Manchuria, is increasing. The whole staffs of the Southern Manchurian Railway and various Japanese Government organs in Manchuria have also joined the movement.

The Kwantung authorities will take advantage of the coming extraordinary session of the Japanese Diet to press for the revision of the plan with more vigorous effort.—Central News.

AIR RACE TO AUSTRALIA

MORE THAN FIFTY COMPETITORS

London, Oct. 4.

The entries of 55 competitors are still valid for the England-Australia Air Race arranged in connection with the Victorian Centenary celebrations, which starts from Mildenhall Aerodrome, Suffolk, on October 20.

The entries are from the following countries:—United States, 17; England, 13; Holland, 5; France, 4; Australia and New Zealand, 4 each; Italy, 2; Denmark, Germany, India, Ireland, New Guinea and Sweden, one each.

It is, of course, not certain that all these entrants will report at the starting point.—British Wireless.

LONDON WELCOMES THE PREMIER

London, Oct. 4.

When the Prime Minister reached London to-day after his three months' holiday, on doctor's orders, in Canada, he was met by the Lord Chancellor, Lord Sankey; the Foreign Secretary, Sir John Simon; the Dominions Secretary, Mr. J. H. Thomas many officials and friends, and a large crowd of Londoners who gave him a warm welcome.

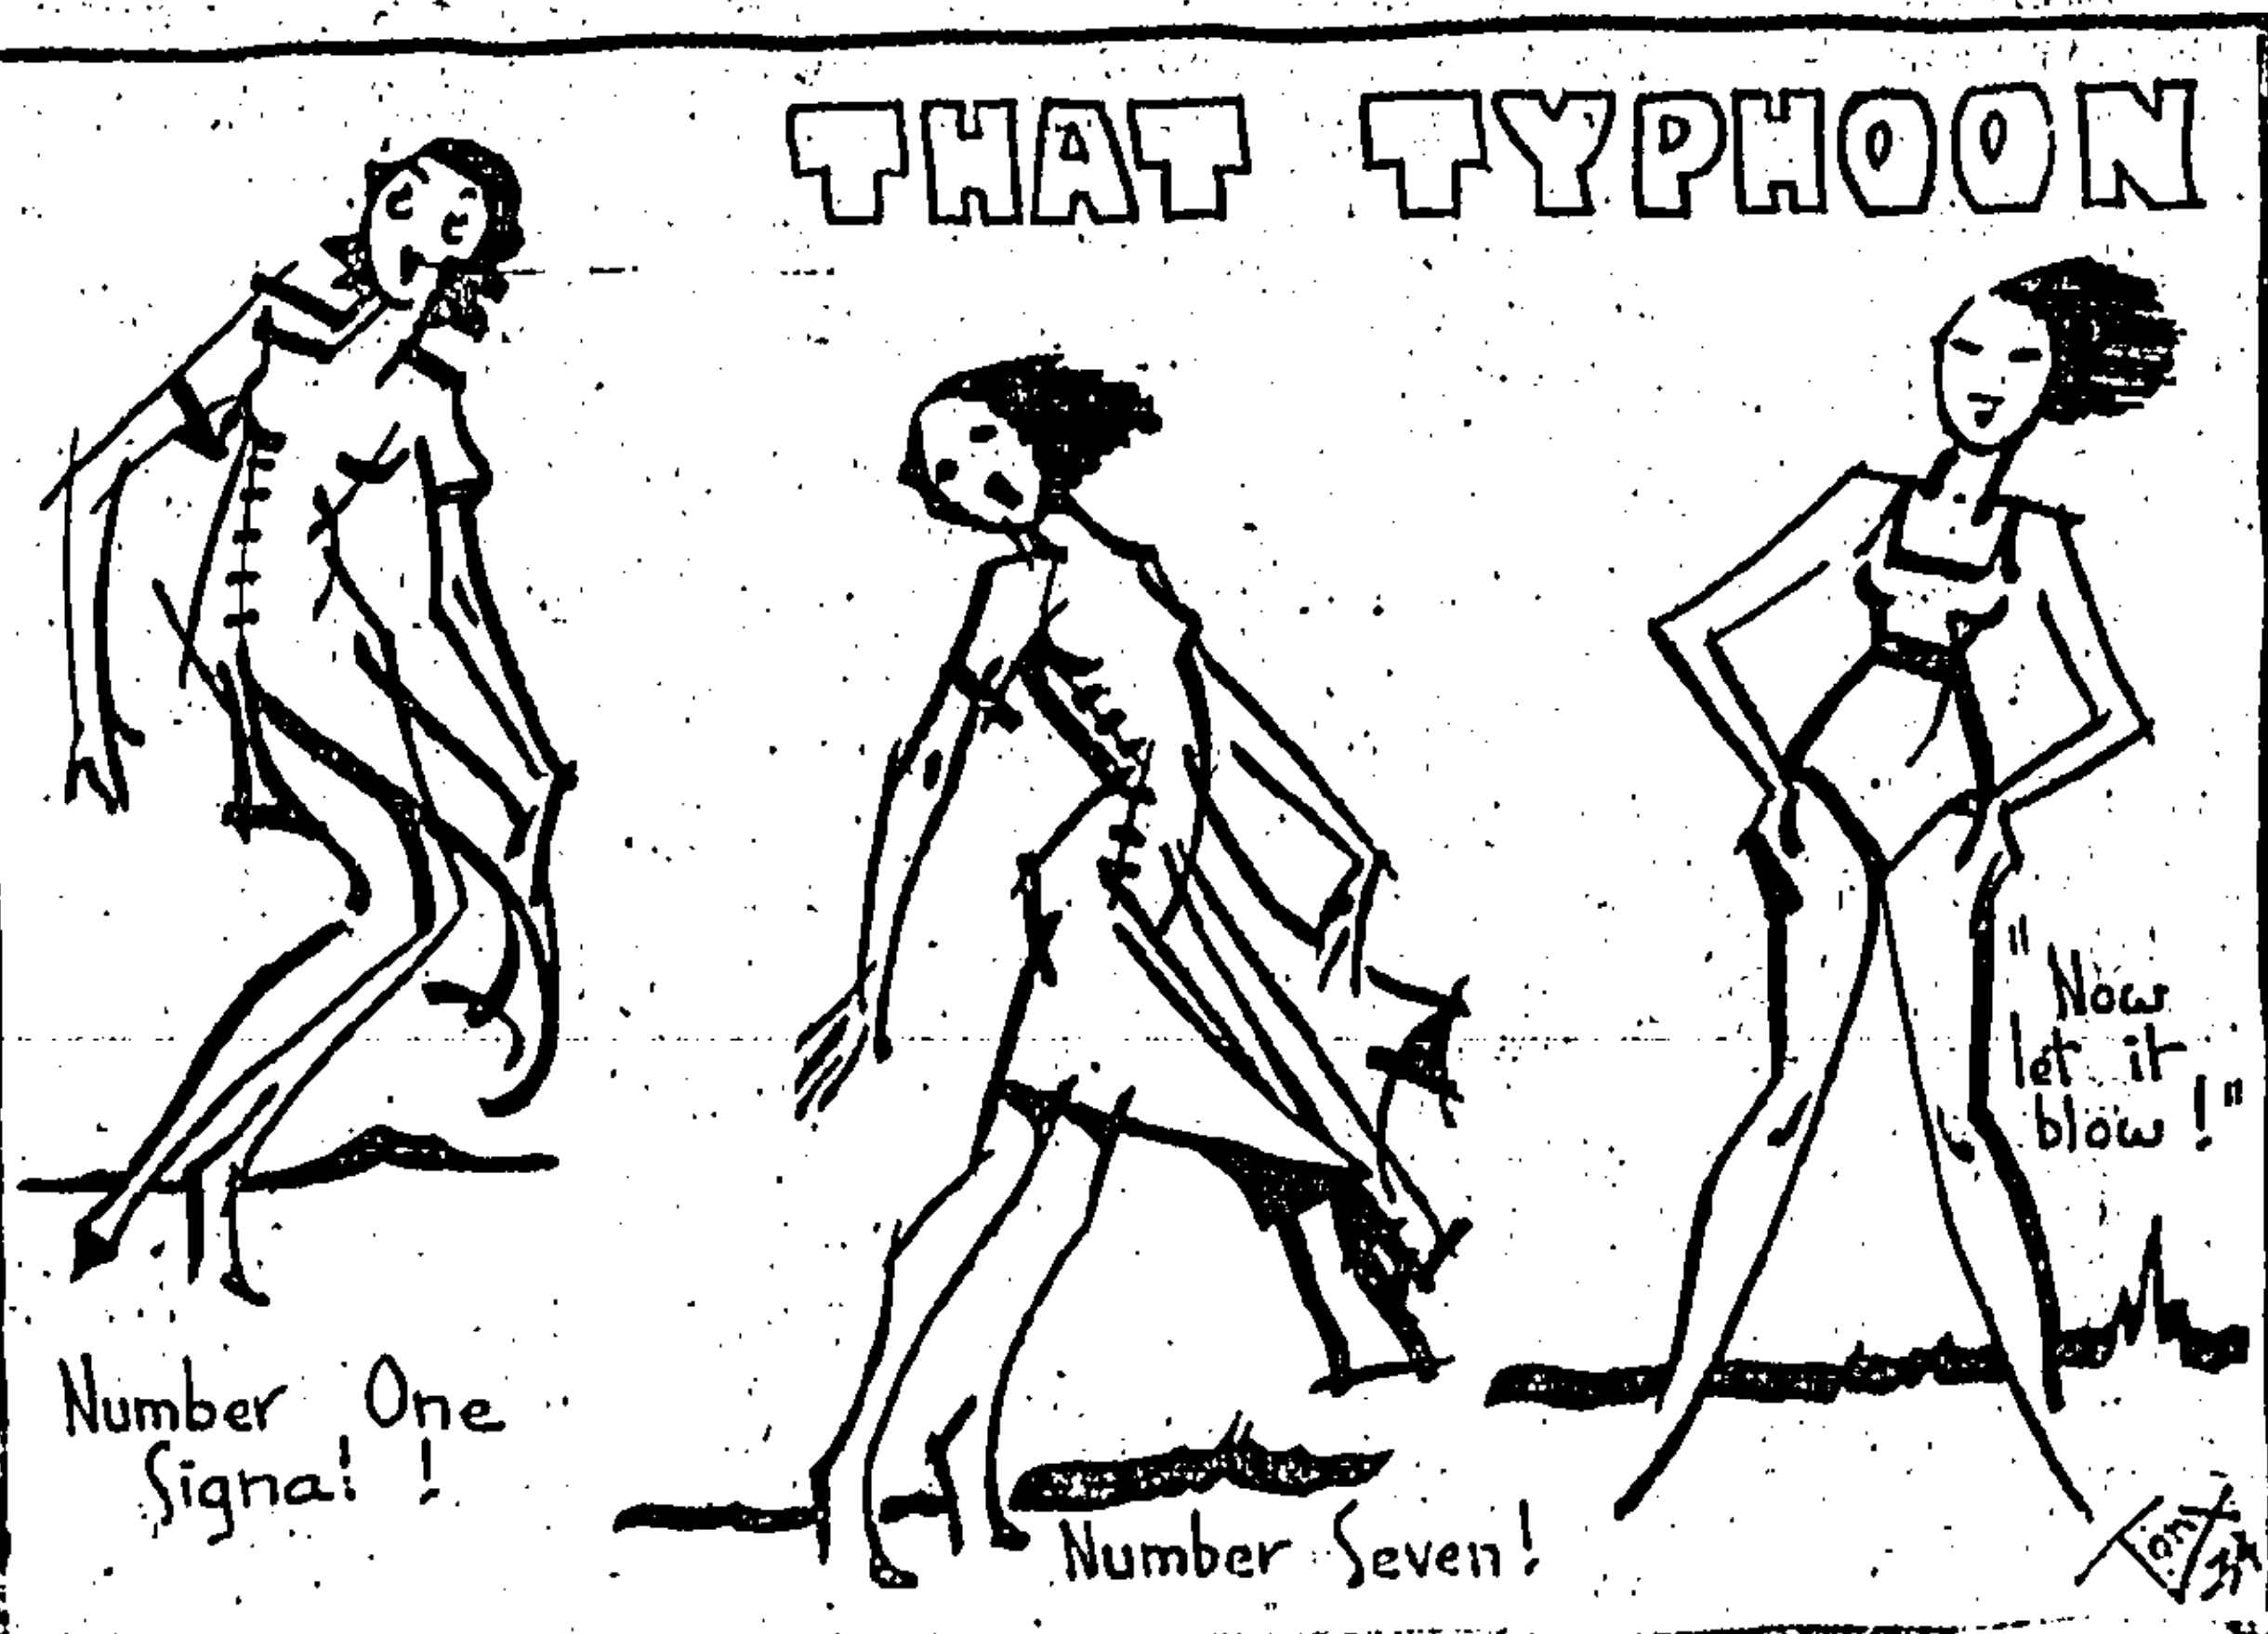

Mr. MacDonald said he was glad to be back and felt much better after his holiday. He will to-morrow be examined by his physician, Lord Horder, and his oculist, Sir Steward Duke Elder.—British Wireless.

JAMES J. CALLAHAN'S LONG CAREER

Boston, Oct. 4.

Mr. James J. Callahan, 60 years of age, died here to-day after a brief illness.

He was one of the most famous baseballers of the old school. He was made manager of the Chicago White Sox in 1902 after he had pitched them to a pennant in 1901.

He first played in the major leagues in 1893, and besides being a first class pitcher, he established himself as a tremendous hitter. He was the last of the great pitcher-hitters.—Reuter.

TATSUTA MARU DELAYED

The N.Y.K. liner Tatsuta Maru, from Shanghai, is delayed on account of heavy weather, and will not reach Hongkong until to-morrow morning.

Our Shanghai correspondent writes under date of yesterday:—Mr. A. F. Handcock is leaving Canton to-day for Kobe. Mr. Handcock is the Manager of the Hongkong & Shanghai Banking Corporation in Canton, but has recently been appointed Assistant Manager of the Bank in Japan. He has served on the Shanghai Municipal Council for two years as Honorary Treasurer, and also took on the Honorary Treasuryship of the Shanghai Lawn Tennis Club. He came to Canton in 1932 from Yokohama. He will be much missed by the community of Canton, amongst whom he had many friends.

Passengers who left Vancouver by the Empress of Canada on September 22 included the following delegates to the International Red Cross conference in Japan:—Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Swift, Secretary Red Cross Societies; Col. P. D. Druitt, Chairman Red Cross; Lt. Gen. Sir Harold B. Fawcett, R.C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O., D.C.L., M.B., Director-General, British Red Cross Society; Dame Rachel Crowley, D.B.E., R.N.C.; and Mrs. Z. M. Havranekova.

The Feast of our Lady of the Rosary is to be observed at the Rosary Church, Kowloon, on Sunday. There will be masses at 6.30 a.m., 7.30 a.m., 8.30 a.m. and Solemn Pontifical Mass at 9.30 a.m. The evening service will be at 4.30 a.m., with Recitation of the Rosary, Procession, Sermon and Benediction.

Royal Artillery Headquarters notify that gun practice will be carried out from Lyceum in the direction of Fo Tau Mun Pass on the 9th inst. between 9.30 a.m. and 3 p.m.

There was a clean bill of health in the Colony on Wednesday.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

UNSETTLED MARKET YESTERDAY

The following reports on the New York stock market have been received through Messrs. Swan, Culbertson and Fritz: The Wall Street Journal report on yesterday's market: Stocks were unsettled, due to the wide break in California shares which was largely owing to short selling on fears of the election of Mr. Upton Sinclair as Governor of California. Towards the close, however, selling pressure eased and many issues staged a rally. Bonds were irregularly lower, excepting United States Government issues, which improved on good buying by Banks, Insurance Companies and other institutions. Stocks of the Cattle Exchange were downward. Wheat prices rallied, due to reports of a heavy flour business in the East and in the South-West.

S. C. & F. New York office:—The stock market recovered well from selling early in the session. The Standard Oil Co. of Indiana has reduced prices by 1 cent a gallon. The United Fruit Co.'s earnings for the 9 months ended September 29th totalled $10,621,000, against $9,087,000 during the corresponding period of last year. Business done: 610,000. New York and Chicago commodity reports received through Messrs. Swan, Culbertson and Fritz: Cotton. The possibility that there will be no Pool sales was an encouraging factor and the market showed some recuperation. We believe that the market has discounted the considerable increase in Monday's Government crop estimate—and, if the report is not unexpectedly higher, a better market is probable. It is reported that bids for Pool cotton totalled 800,000 bales, but not over 100,000 bales were sold, if any.

Grain: Chicago advices state that the upturn was due to heavy flour and export sales being reported. The tone was better. Optimism regarding the long-term outlook persisted in some quarters and the market appears to be technically sound, but we consider that some decided improvement in foreign news is necessary for any substantial recovery. ## TO-MORROW'S RACES

PARI-MUTUEL OFFER TO PUNTERS

NARROWED COURSE MAY AFFECT PONIES IN SIXTH RACE

MY NOMINATIONS FOR RACE-GOERS

(By "Captain Foster")

The racing to-morrow promises to be very open, with the possible exception of the second race, the Jordan Handicap (First Section), in which I think the top-weighted Racing Pluck has an outstanding chance of winning, unless the distance proves too far for him. If he, however, reproduces the form he displayed in the Junk Bay Handicap at the last Meeting, I cannot see him beaten.

The two Australian events (Cantala Handicap and Canberra Handicap) should provide the spectators with plenty of excitement, as I think we shall be treated with close finishes, especially in the Cantala Handicap, where form is better known. Able Amazon, I understand, is a nonstarter in the Canberra Handicap, in which case the weight of all the other ponies will be increased by seven pounds.

I expect to see a very large field in the Kimberley Handicap, confined to "C" Class ponies, over a distance of six furlongs, and I am afraid that, if the majority of the entrants elect to start, luck will play an important part in the result of the race. The course has been narrowed all round so as not to interfere with the turf which ordinarily forms the going next to the rails, and, in consequence, ponies that get off at the start will have more than the accepted advantage usually associated with a quick beginning.

The entries for the Jordan Handicap, confined to "D" Class ponies are only four more in number, yet this Handicap has been split into two races (first and second sections) and the field in each event will not therefore be unduly large.

Before discussing each race in extenso, I would like to refer to a further innovation of the Hongkong Jockey Club, that is that the Meeting to-morrow will see the introduction of a $2 Pari-Mutuel (win and place) instead of the customary $5 ticket, which has been in force for more years than I can remember. The lower cost for a ticket will, I am sure, prove highly popular with race-goers and, if anything, I am prepared to see a much larger turn-over in the Pari-Mutuel counters for the future.

NATHAN HANDICAP.

An old favourite in King's Bounty will make his appearance in this race in the hands of Mr. Davis, and I think he will run well. Macaroni, however, is my fancy although his stable companion, Gladiator, will press him very close at the finish. New Star is a pony I consider requires watching if he starts here. Win or lose I expect great things from this animal before the season closes. Don has not been seen in front for some time but a review of his races in the spring shows that he has been competing against "A" Class ponies. His demotion to "B" Class with 145 lbs in this race should make him dangerous.

JORDON HANDICAP (FIRST SECTION).

I fully expect Racing Pluck to account for this race, and do not propose to look further for the winner. I hear most favourable reports of National Day, and understand the stable connections are more than hopeful of seeing him finishing post the winning post in the first position. I am, however, very partial to King's Parade and Heller Skeler and shall not be surprised to see them finish in the place positions.

CANTALA HANDICAP.

I prefer the chances of The Goosy vis-a-vis Australian Boy, and expect to see a great race between them. Empire Day is fancied but the chances of Roy Morn, a recently demoted pony, must not be ignored. Both these animals are usually ridden by Mr. Delti and I presume he will be riding the one which he considers as having the better prospect. St. Joan, on her last running, must be in at the death, and I like her winning chances as much as the first mentioned two.

AUSTIN PLATE.

Ribbles and Soldier of Germany will both be certain starters for

They Say

THAT Atlas has a leg.

THAT he will be out training for sometime.

THAT the Kong Stable has two very fine looking Derby Grifflins.

THAT the Brown is not unlike Polar Star in appearance.

THAT he is a high class animal.

THAT the Chestnut is also a very breezy animal.

THAT in some quarters she is preferred to the Brown.

this race, and the finish should be close, my preference being for Ribbles. Budge should fill the third position.

CARNARVON STAKES.
The Bodoga appeals most strongly and accordingly he has my vote for the first place. He will I think be followed home by Delightful Chance and Little Beauty. I liked Little Beauty's gallop last Wednesday morning and I make him a good each way bet.

KIMBERLEY HANDICAP.

The largest field of the day will face the starter for this race and I can foresee a scramble for the first three furlongs, if not longer. Bistre, Flying Tourist, Lemberg, Racing Boy, The Tiger, Valorous and Wayward Stag are all fast animals in this class. The luck of the race will be the deciding factor, my fancy is Valorous with Racing Boy, Lemberg and The Tiger most dangerous.

CANBERRA HANDICAP.

I understand that Able Amazon will not start at the meeting. Her absence from the field will make the race very open indeed, and I shall not be surprised to see the best race and finish of the day here. We have seen Nell Gwyn and Just That in action already; they are both well and should show improved form to-morrow. They must both be concerned in the finish, and I have a feeling that the animal which finishes in front of this pair will be returned the winner. Bag Tor, Bronze Era and Racing Heart start their Autumn season in this race. They are all good and capable of extending Neil Gwyn and Just That. Racing Heart strikes me as having a pull in the weights to a slight extent. He is known to be well and his stable connections are confident that he will give a good account of himself in the race.

JORDON HANDICAP.

Vago is my choice for this race, the distance being too far to suit Hey Tor. Colombo should be prominent at the finish, and Shaughraun will be there or thereabouts.

SECOND DAY.

My fancies will appear in these columns on Tuesday next, but, of course, the race of the day will be the Double Tent Plate, in which Diana Bay, Trentbridge, and Soldier of Britain will face the starter. I hear all is not well with Diana Bay but hope that the rumour is groundless, and that she will take her position at the barrier at the appointed time. Diana Bay won the identical race last year but the opposition next Wednesday will be much more formidable. Soldier of Britain can "shift", and if he gets off well, will take a lot of catching. He also has condition in his favour, as both Diana Bay and Trentbridge have only recently returned from the North and are therefore not sufficiently "tuned" up to give of their best.

FAITH IN ATTACK

CAPTAIN'S MESSAGE

"BEST TEAM IN RECENT YEARS"

DEPARTURE THIS MORNING

(By "Veritas")

Accompanied by many expressions of goodwill from a large number of well-wishers who had wharf to bid adieu, the Hongkong Interport cricket team sailed down the harbour this morning on board the Empress of Asia, bound for Shanghai.

The thirteen players, all reporting themselves perfectly fit, were in the best of spirits, and all expressed themselves eager for the approaching Interport.

They realise that they are confronted with a big task in disposing of the strong Shanghai batting side on the easy paced wickets which can be expected in Shanghai. Mr. Harry Owen-Hughes, captain elect, confessed this morning in a farewell interview that Shanghai certainly appeared stronger than Hongkong in batting, but he felt the Colony team held the advantage in attack. He felt perfectly confident in his bowlers and expected to see the variety of the attack prove good enough to get Shanghai out.

SPLENDIDLY EQUIPPED.

"I regard this team as being splendidly equipped all round, and is undoubtedly one of the best teams we have sent to Shanghai in recent years." Obviously, added Mr. Owen-Hughes, we are going up there to do our best, and if that proves sufficient to give us the victory, we shall be perfectly satisfied.

"I know we shall have a good time there," he added, "that goes without saying. But as to the result of the Interport, we are merely hoping."

I learnt this morning that in the event of Tam Fong playing in the Interport, he will probably be captain of the side. Yesterday a rumour was current that he would not be making the trip, but it was later disproved.

THE PLAYERS.

The thirteen players who embarked on the Empress of Asia this morning were: H. Owen-Hughes, T. E. Pearce, T. A. Pearce, I. McInnes, Lieut. J. P. Williams, Rev. H. W. Baines, Lieut. C. C. Garthwaite, A. Madar, A. R. Minu, G. S. Dunkley, E. J. R. Mitchell, E. D. Pereira, and G. R. M. Ricketts.

The probable team to play Shanghai will be—H. Owen-Hughes, T. A. Pearce, I. McInnes, Rev. Baines, Lieut. Garthwaite, A. Madar, A. R. Minu, F. D. Pereira, G. S. Dunkley, E. J. R. Mitchell, and G. R. M. Ricketts.

HONGKONG'S PROBLEM.

This means that Hongkong are in a position to call on six good bowlers. Much will depend on Pereira, Garthwaite, T. A. Pearce and Minu, but in addition there is Ricketts, McInnes and Owen-Hughes.

Last Four In U.S. Women's Golf Championship

MRS. VARE TO PLAY HOLDER

Philadelphia, Oct. 4. Mrs. Collett Vare, Miss Virginia Van Wie (holder), Miss D. Traung and Mrs. Hill are the semi-finalists in the United States Women's Golf Championship.

According to the draw they will play as follows: Mrs. Vare v Miss Van Wie, Miss Traung v Mrs. Hill. The only surprise in to-day's quarter-final matches was the elimination of Mrs. Cheney, the American Curtis Cup player, who lost to Mrs. Hill by one hole. Mrs. Collett Vare, who has so far met with outstanding success in her effort to "come back" in big competitive golf, had another very easy game against Miss Weil, whom she beat by 3 and 5, while Miss Virginia Van Wie, who has also displayed magnificent form, beat Miss Frances Williams by 5 and 4.

Miss Traung was not particularly extended by Mrs. Donner, the New Jersey competitor, winning 3 and 2, but Mrs. Hill only just ousted Mrs. Cheney in an interesting game.—Reuter.

JARMAN TO MEET DAVIES

KEEN MATCHES YESTERDAY

Lance-Corporal Davies, who plays right half for the South Wales Borderers' first division football team, yesterday qualified for the final of the Area Inter-Unit (Other Ranks) singles tennis championship, when he defeated C.S.M. Lewis of the Borderers in the semi-final at Sookunpo.

His opponent in the final will be R.Q.M.S. Jarman, who eliminated Drummer Jones, the Borderers' inside left.

All four semi-finalists were Borderers, and both matches went to the advantage set.

Jarman started in great form against "Hooker" Jones taking the first set to love, but Jones recovered nicely after this, and settled down to produce his strokes more

No Successor To Queen Helen Jacobs

DIFFICULT POSITION WOULD ARISE IF SHE TURNED PROFESSIONAL

New York, Sept. 29. Within a very few minutes after Helen Jacobs defeated Sarah Palfrey for the national women's tennis championship—marking her third straight victory and permanent possession of the titular cup—she was busy denying rumours that she will turn professional.

Miss Jacobs was very strong and emphatic. Under no circumstances, she said, would she leave amateur ranks. But the rumours set experts to wondering who would take the California girl's place if she should exercise woman's prerogative and become a professional.

A survey of available United States material reveals no one of championship calibre. Miss Jacobs moved calmly and easily through the tournament and won the title without ever being excited.

Many have advanced Carolyn Babcock, another Californian, as a successor to Miss Jacobs. Miss Babcock is a good player and mechanically her game is sound, but in the critical opinion of those who have watched her, she doesn't seem to have the extra urge that raises competitors to championship levels.

Sarah Palfrey, from Massachusetts, play a quiet sort of game that is very good but not always good enough. She seems to have reached her pinnacle.

Mrs. Dorothy Andrus, the United States No. 4 in rank, is a good tennis player until she begins to worry about her shots. Then she goes to pieces and frets herself into defeat.

On the English side it is probable that Dorothy Round would be the best. Miss Round did not play at Forest Hills here this year. Betty Nuthall and Katherine Stammers did. They turned in good performances but not the championship sort.

Many tennis followers point out that it is too soon to begin speculating on a successor to Miss Jacobs.

It is probably that she may desire to continue her reign of the amateurs until she wins three more championships. Then she will have gained possession of two cups as did her contemporary, Helen Wills Moody.

PLAYER'S TRIBUTE. The strong conservatism of Miss Jacobs' game, many believe, serves to make her tennis mastery somewhat unappreciated.

Sir F. Gordon Lowe, former British Davis Cup player, said of her at Forest Hills:

"Miss Jacobs is a much finer player than is sometimes given credit for. If she had not been a contemporary of Mrs. Moody and possessed better stamina, her sustained record might have been even better."

WELCOMED BY U.S. CRITIC

CORRECTIVE TO IMPETUOUS AMERICAN PLAYERS

WHERE ENGLISH PLAYERS SET SHINING EXAMPLE

Writing in a recent issue of American Lawn Tennis, Mr. Stephen W. Merrihew, the editor, deals with the foot-fault question, in the course of which he makes the following interesting observations.

It is scarcely an exaggeration to say that it is only the American players who foot-fault habitually. Their game is based on a swift and aggressive service, designed to either score outright or open the way to an advance to the net. Rule 7 is designed to check or hold within reasonable limits such tactics.

The Englishman does not serve in this fashion, nor the Japanese, the German or Italian, nor the Australian as a rule. It follows that in England, for example, violation of Rule 7 is rare and that English officials have little difficulty in enforcing the law.

But it is too much to expect that American players will be permitted to invade the centre court at Wimbledon and escape penalization when they break Rule 7. When they are penalized there is nothing to do but grin and bear it. That is what Captain Williams and his men did. When Shields was foot-faulted twenty times and Wood eighteen—a few less, or more, makes little difference—the fate of the English championship or of the Davis Cup might be at stake, but that did not matter to the officials who had been given the power to impose penalties. The way to foil those gentlemen was to observe Rule 7, i.e. to serve properly. When American players, as a whole, do that they need not fear having their game broken up.

DUE TO CARELESSNESS.

It is quite within bounds to say that players rarely transgress the foot-fault rule of set purpose; when they do they deserve no mercy. A very considerable proportion of the violations are the result of carelessness, aided and abetted by the fact that there is no foot-fault judge or that such official is lenient or a worshipper of that fetish the "technical" fault.

Sometimes the habit of serving improperly becomes so ingrained that it is difficult to eradicate it under the stress of tournament play. When it is highly important to win a point the player is engrossed with the problem of how to win it and he frequently forgets about his feet and touches or goes over the line, or jumps, before the ball is hit.

The foot-fault judge is there to detect such violations, and it is no part of his duty to feel pity, remember whether it is a first or second service, or set himself up to decide whether or not an advantage is being gained. If the service is made properly he remains silent, while if the rule is violated it is his business to impose the prescribed penalty.

ENGLISH LEAST OFFENDERS.

The English are not a race of foot-faulters in lawn tennis. With them the service is more a means of getting the ball in play than of scoring an outright ace or paying the way to a successful incursion to the net. It is not surprising therefore that they have come rather slowly to the point reached this year at Wimbledon, when American services were watched very carefully and foot-faults were called when they were made. That the foot-fault judges were not entirely occupied with the men from the United States was evidenced by the fact that Jack Crawford was penalized at match point; and subsequently George Lott was given a dose of the same medicine. It may be that George's reaction was due to the fact that foot-fault penalties are no new thing to him; he waltzed gaily to the baseline and served an ace to end the doubles match in which he and Stöfen were engaged. It was quite otherwise with Jack, whose service is almost invariably legal. He served again and so weakly that it was a real fault, and so the match ended on that note.

GOOD EFFECT EXPECTED.

Whatever follows in the wake of the foot-faulting epidemic at Wimbledon it appears to have been a good thing. The proof of this is that no one has challenged the legality of the penalties imposed on the fairness of their application. This is truly remarkable. No penalties were imposed on Perry or Austin, and we are led to believe that none should have been imposed. There has been no intimation that the Americans were persecuted or treated unjustly but impartially. We take the view therefore that they were given a wholesome and well-merited lesson. It is to be hoped that they have profited by it and that there will be less work for the foot-fault judges in the two important championships that are still to be held.

Tent-pegging Events At Polo Ground

A large crowd attended at the Hongkong Polo Ground yesterday afternoon to witness the preliminary heats of the Tent Pegging Competition of the Machine Gun Troop, Gymkhana, which is to be decided at the Polo Ground on October 15.

Some spirited tent pegging was seen. There were 28 entries but only 16 competitors turned up yesterday. The eight who qualified for the final were Mr. A. B. Fooks who scored 24 points out of a possible 30; Mr. E. M. K. Mead, 22 points; Mr. R. H. Charles and Mr. R. H. Allen, 19 points; Mr. G. Taylor, 18 points; Mr. F. R. P. James, 17 points; Lt.-Col. F. H. E. Skyring, and Mr. P. Williams, 16 points.

The following also competed in this event: Messrs. Appleyard, E. B. Braiser-Creagh, J. D. H. Crawford, D. A. Cumming, E. H. Impey, N. W. Metcalfe, L. G. Robertson, A. Wall, and A. E. Williams.

AMERICA WANTS FOREIGN BOXERS

MADISON SQUARE PROJECT

New York, Sept. 28.

If James J. Johnston knows what he is talking about, and he usually does, the United States is going to see a great deal of foreign prizefighters in the months to come.

Johnston has just been re-appointed matchmaker for Madison Square Garden, the largest firm in the world in prize fight business, and one of his first assertions was that he was going to bring foreigners to fight in the United States.

"The fight game," he said, "is better to-day than it has been in the past three or four years; there are plenty of good fighters around in the various divisions."

"We're going to bring Soapman Watson, of England, over here again, Marcel Thill of France; Jack McEvoy, who has a great reputation in England as a light heavyweight, and Ambrose Palmer, an Australian."

There are possibly others who will be brought over later, Johnston intimated. Johnston is one of the outstanding figures in American boxing circles. He has gone a hob at the Garden—after being brought in as successor to the late and famous Tex Rickard—that has satisfied officials of that organization but not always the press.

A FUNNY GAME.

All of this summer a part of the press was after Johnston trying to get him discharged, but these efforts were unsuccessful.

Their battle failed to worry the matchmaker. He said:

"The fight game is funny. You never know exactly where you stand. I advanced to where I am literally by the disparagement of my enemies. I made some great friends and a number of equally strong enemies; who, nevertheless, an opportunity pass to strike at me. I stopped more figurative punches than Carnara did literally the night he fought Baer, but I'm still here."

Johnston is wise, ambitious and energetic. It is possible he could have made more money by going in business for himself, but the prestige that his present position carries has bound him to it.

He has promoted shows of every description, from food exhibits to airplane stunt flying and estimates that all the attractions he has promoted—for someone else—have attracted receipts of $125,000,000.—United Press.

ANOTHER BUSINESS FAILURE.

CHOSEN CO. HAS TO GO INTO LIQUIDATION

By a resolution passed at a meeting of creditors held at the office of the Company at 99, Des Voeux Road Central, yesterday afternoon, it was decided to wind up the affairs of the Chosen Co., Ltd., by reason of its inability to carry on.

One of the big Chinese importers, the Chosen Co. was founded as a limited liability concern ten years ago, with a paid-up capital of $700,000. After six years' unsuccessful trading, when the assets had shrunk to a serious extent, it was decided to reorganize the company on less ambitious lines, and to $140,000 represented mostly by unpaid stock.

In trade, additional cash to the extent of $80,000 was added, making the total available trading capital $220,000.

On this basis, business was continued, but owing to trade depression, further losses were incurred. Debts now stand at $250,000, but of this amount some $150,000 is recoverable from stocks now being disposed of, and a dividend is available to creditors, of between 50 and 60 per cent.

The Chosen Co. was one of the "Big Four" (the other three being the Sincere, Sun and Wing On Companies) carrying on the business of departmental stores. To this number has since been added the China Emporium, Ltd.

Liquidators to take charge of the winding-up, have been appointed, they being the Chief Manager, Mr. Lee Ken-chau; the Assistant Manager, Mr. Loung Yip-wing; and the Treasurer, Mr. Lee, Fun-pul.

FATAL ACCIDENT

JURY RETURNS VERDICT OF MISADVENTURE

An inquiry was held before Mr. Wynne-Jones at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday afternoon, into the circumstances surrounding the death of Lai Pui-wah, a nine-year-old Chinese schoolboy, who was knocked down and killed by a Chevrolet car, No. 2497, near the Po Hing Theatre on September 20.

The jury consisted of Messrs. Ahmed Drummond, Chan Keng and Lau Yerk-wan.

Evidence was given by Dr. P.F.S. Court, medical officer at the Kowloon Hospital, that at 9.45 a.m. on September 21 he conducted a post-mortem examination on the body of a nine-year-old Chinese boy. The body was identified by Lai Wu-chee, the boy's father. Externally, there were abrasions down the right thigh and a small bruise above the right groin. There were abrasions on the right side of the face and a bruise above the right eye. Internally, there was a bruise on the lower lobe of the right lung, the skull was fractured above the right eye and the right temple was bashed in. Death was caused by fracture of the skull and concussion. In Dr. Court's opinion, the injuries were caused by a collision with a car. The line of abrasions down the right side of the body indicated that he might have been dragged along the ground.

Brother's Evidence.

Lai Mau-fan, elder brother of Lai Pui-wah, gave evidence that at 1.15 p.m. on September 20, he and his brother were passing the Po Hing Theatre on their way from Mongkok to their home. They started to cross the road towards the Alhambra Theatre, when a private car appeared coming from the direction of Mongkok. Witness, about two feet away from the pavement, let go of his brother's hand and stood still. His brother ran forward then back and was knocked down by the car. The car stopped and took the boy away.

Sun Yat-keung, an 18-year-old schoolboy, said that he had seen the two boys attempting to cross the road when the car appeared. The youngest boy ran on ahead

THE PALM TRIO.

STAGE ATTRACTION AT QUEEN'S THEATRE

A thrilling and daring act by the Palm Trio forms an additional attraction to the Fox film "Mr. Skitch" which began its run at the Queen's Theatre last night.

The three acrobats perform some daring feats on top of a thirty-five feet pole and the stage has had to be specially extended so that the audience can get a full view of the act.

Beginning with a silent comedy turn in which two of the men show their dexterity in floor gymnastics, the act works up to a finale when the strongest man of the outfit supports the heavy pole from a belt round his waist for his companions to ascend in turn and do their aerial acrobatics.

Palm gives more than a few breath taking seconds while balancing solely on his head at the top of the pole and a thrill of equal intensity is provided by Bori who has to manoeuvre into position a chair upon which he balances.

The trio claim they have gone six years without an accident and they certainly have brought their show to a fine state of perfection.

and in trying to get back to the pavement, was knocked down by the car.

Car Tested.

Sergeant J. Scrimm said that on September 20 he saw the car, No. 2497 at the Yau-mat Police Station and tested it. He found that the foot brake was good, pulling up in 28 feet when travelling at 20 m.p.h. The hand brake pulled up in 205 feet. The mechanical condition of the car was good.

The driver of the car, Tze Hong-fuk, gave evidence that when passing the Po Hing Theatre he saw three boys crossing the road from right to left. On sounding his horn, one of the boys started to run forward and then rushed back again. The boy was knocked down by the front near wheel. The driver swerved the car to the right and stopped and saw the boy six feet to the rear of the car.

The jury, after consideration, returned a verdict of death by misadventure, and found no negligence on the part of the driver.

BORDERERS COLOURS.

FILM TO BE SCREENED AT KING'S THEATRE

A special added attraction on Sunday at the King's Theatre, of great interest to the South Wales Borderers who are shortly leaving Hongkong for India, is a film depicting the laying up of the old Colours of the 1st Battalion, South Wales Borderers, at Brecon, South Wales, on Easter Sunday this year.

The film is being screened in conjunction with the RKO-Radio production "Where Sinners Meet" with Clive Brook and Diana Wynyard, the stars of "Cavalcade," in the leading roles.

To mark the occasion, the band of the South Wales Borderers (by kind permission of Lieut.-Col. A. E. Williams, D.S.O., M.C. and Officers) will play on the stage at the 9.30 p.m. performance. The programme is as follows:

"The London Scottish".....March.
"The Merry Widow".....Selection.
"Land of Hope and Glory".....Song.
"Hussaretti".....Descriptive.
"Ben Wlad Py Nhadau."

DR. DOUGLAS LAING.

RETURNS TO COLONY AFTER TWO YEARS' ABSENCE

After an absence of two years, Dr. Douglas Laing, a graduate of the Hongkong University, has returned to the Colony from England and America where he has been pursuing his post-graduate studies. Ten years ago Dr. Laing was one of the foremost swimmers in the Colony, and figured prominently in local games as well as in interports. He captained Hongkong's team against Shanghai the year before he left for London.

Dr. Laing spent some eighteen months studying at the Government Civil Hospital before leaving for England in August, 1932. He has carried out an extensive study and will set up in practice in Hongkong.

BLOODSHED FOLLOWS GENERAL STRIKE IN SPAIN

NEW RED PLOT IN AUSTRIA

SWIFT ROUND-UP OF SUSPECTS UNDERTAKEN BY POLICE

NATION-WIDE RISING PREVENTED

(SPECIAL TO "TELEGRAPH")

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, Oct. 5, 8.10 a.m.)

THE GOVERNMENT'S AGENTS HAVE SWOOPED SUDDENLY AND FRUSTRATED THE PLANS OF SOCIALISTS FOR A NATION-WIDE UPRISING. MANY ARRESTS HAVE BEEN MADE AND THE POLICE ROUND-UP IS CONTINUING.

Documents in code were found on the person of a cyclist courier who was arrested on suspicion in a Florisdorf suburb by Secret Agents. The code was discovered to contain detailed instructions for a Socialist coup d'état.

For all the police knew the coup might commence at any moment. They sounded a general alarm throughout Vienna and the Government took immediate steps to prevent an outbreak. It was feared that should the Socialists find themselves discovered they would attempt a terrorist uprising in any event.

PRECISE INSTRUCTIONS.

Precise instructions were contained in the messages carried by the captured despatch rider. Even the locations of machine-gun emplacements were given and the places of rendezvous for recruits.

But more valuable still was a list of the present members of the new Red Front.

Police were thus able to throw a net around the plotters without loss of time.

FAR AFIELD.

The plans for the revolt extended far afield and disclosed a well-organised and numerous brotherhood of potential rebels.

Outbreaks were contemplated over a wide area, to commence simultaneously.

Not only in Vienna would machine-guns have snatched and bombs crashed, but at Innsbruck, Graz and Linz, strongholds of Communism, there would have been uprisings. Smaller revolts would have occurred at isolated spots in every direction.

MANY ARRESTS.

Many arrests have already been made, but police are still bringing in sullen suspect plotters.

The precautions ordered when the first hint of the plan of revolt was discovered have not been relaxed, and it is likely that a strict surveillance will continue for some days.—Reuter Special.

FLOOD DAMAGE IN NORTH

Yellow River's Dangerous Level

Tientsin, Oct. 5.

Many towns, large and small, and countless villages are threatened by the continued rise in the Yellow River, according to reports reaching here.

The cause of the flood menace is the persistent torrent of rain which has fallen for the past few weeks.

Twenty-two villages west of Suchow have been inundated following a severe storm in the Hsien district.

Southern Hopei is partly flooded while the crops over a wide area have been completely destroyed.—Reuter.

ANOTHER RESIGNATION

Nanking, Oct. 5.

Following the resignation of Dr. Lo Wen-tan from the Ministry of Justice, Mr. Cheng Tien-shih, vice-minister of Justice, has also tendered his resignation.—Central News.

MADRID, OCT. 5.

THREE STORM GUARDS HAVE BEEN KILLED AND AN UNKNOWN NUMBER WOUNDED IN GUNFIGHTS IN THE CITY. A STRICT CENSORSHIP HAS BEEN ESTABLISHED ON ALL NEWSPAPERS. IN CORDOBA SOCIALISTS, COMMUNISTS AND SYNDICALISTS HAVE DECLARED IN FAVOUR OF A GENERAL STRIKE AND THE AUTHORITIES ARE TAKING EVERY PRECAUTION. IN BADAJOZ A BUILDING AND CONSTRUCTION WORKERS' STRIKE WAS FOLLOWED BY A WALK-OUT OF NEWSPAPER PRINTERS.

It was expected that the stoppage of work in Madrid would be complete by 7 a.m. to-day. Taxis are already withdrawing from the streets and the trams are following suit.

STRICT CENSORSHIP IMPOSED

In the suburbs of Madrid there have been serious riots and two developed into gunfights between strikers and police. Police made a few intimidatory arrests.

It is feared that the city's bread supplies will be exhausted by Thursday and there is threat of serious famine.

The general strike has been proclaimed throughout Spain by the Socialist Trade Unions as a protest against the inclusion in Senor Llorca's new Cabinet of three Catholics.

STREETS EMPTYING.

Trams and taxis have disappeared from the streets of the city. Trade union leaders declare that work will be at a complete standstill from to-day (Friday).

More serious rioting has been reported from the suburbs but the new Home Secretary declares that all precautions have been taken to protect life and property.

The appointment of the three Catholic ministers has also incensed the Left Republicans, who immediately declared a boycott of President Zamora, though no-one knows just what this may mean.

They describe the Catholic appointments as a "betrayal of the public."—Reuter, Special and United Press.

DEATH ROLL MOUNTING

Four hours after the strike commenced, the death roll had mounted to three and there were fears that it would increase throughout the day as the rioting spread.

Workers in all Madrid newspapers have been ordered out. All the so-called authentically Republican parties have issued statements to the effect that they are cutting their ties with Republican institutions, meaning that they are breaking off relations with President Zamora. That is the meaning of the "boycott," threatened earlier. The parties are declaring that they will withdraw from Parliament.

At Cordoba the taxi drivers, waiters and cooks have decided to strike at 5 a.m. Workers in the gas yards, electricity and water service plants are also going to walk out that hour.—United Press.

BRITAIN ALIVE TO WAR DANGER

CHAMBERLAIN'S ASSURANCES

"WE TRY TO KEEP PEACE"

INCREASING DEFENCES

London, Oct. 4.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer, Mr. Neville Chamberlain made a statement in the course of a discussion on Imperial Defence at the Conservative Party Conference at Bristol to-day. He was replying to Lord Lloyd, who, in a vigorous speech, had moved a resolution expressing "anxiety regarding the adequacy of provisions made for Imperial Defence."

The Chancellor said Britain had done her best, by precept and example, to get other countries to reduce their armaments but had failed. Until the feeling of fear and anxiety among the great armed nations could be removed, there was not much hope of any serious measure of disarmament.

"We are still trying to keep peace and remove the causes of anxiety and suspicion. But this Government has felt in view of the fact that after all these years no appreciable progress has been made towards disarmament, that it was quite incompatible with their duty to this country to leave our defences in the condition in which they are to-day."

WIDE FRONTIERS.

"We have made a prolonged investigation of the state of defence, not merely of Britain, but of the whole Empire, because we have to defend not merely our own land but also our trade routes and Dominions. We have spent many months, assisted by those who speak with the greatest authority on behalf of the various Services, in examining the whole situation and in formulating adequate plans to deal with that situation. We have made a definite announcement about the Air Force, because we feel that the Air Service differs from others in that attack from the air is one which might affect every man, woman or child."

"We have put forward plans under which this country will spend approximately £20,000,000 in the course of this and the four succeeding years in bringing up the number of squadrons of

RICHEST ORE IN HISTORY

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, October 5, 9.15 a.m.)

Toronto, Oct. 4.

Mining experts of the Ontario Provincial Government have confirmed reports of the discovery of what may prove to be the greatest gold strike in the history of the world.

Government engineers returned to-day from a visit to the Sturgeon Lake area, just north of the international boundary line and in the lake country of western Ontario, with a remarkable tale of a new gold rush.

United States and Canadian syndicate representatives are bidding feverishly against each other buying up properties, proved and unproved, from prospectors.

The engineers say that many of the veins disclosed in this area are of unprecedented width and depth.

Hundred upon hundred of adventurers are pouring into the Sturgeon Lake country, searching for gold. It is not free gold of the Klondike days, but rock gold, and the average man without training has little chance to find it. That does not prevent hundreds of tenderfeet from trying, however, and the hills and water-courses are full of them.

Extra forces of provincial police and Royal Canadian Mounted (the old R.N.W.M.P.) are being rushed into the back country to keep order among the feverish prospectors and treasure-hunters, the claim-buys and syndicate speculators who are roaming about.—United Press.

PROBLEM CHILDREN

May Be Dealt With By Treating Parents

"In most fairy tales so far written I have noticed that parents are inevitably good and kind while children are often wicked, but in real life the position is very often reversed, though the individuals concerned are blissfully unaware of it."

This dictum was uttered by Dr. D. R. MacCallman in the course of a paper read to the educational science section of the British Association, at Aberdeen.

The Victorians, declared the doctor, had made adult adjustment—the establishment of oneself as an independent and useful citizen—extraordinarily difficult and the majority of the population enjoyed intellectual freedom only. Intellectually adults, they were still emotionally at their mother's knees.

Marriage, which ought to be the final adjustment, was in many cases undertaken for an infantile reason. On the other hand, most marital problems which usually tended to separation or divorce would be settled if the parties concerned were subjected to attitude therapy by a skilled worker.

Dr. MacCallman said that treatment of the parent was sometimes the most promising way of dealing with the problem of the child.

Some of the points from the doctor's paper were:—

Over-protection is more often the cause of delinquency in a child than rejection. In fact, it seems disastrous for one relative to love another too much.

It will be necessary to educate the public as quickly as possible to the fact that all "badness" is purposive—that there is always a reason for a child's temper, tantrums, or stealing, and that something can be done about it to the same extent that a broken limb or a case of pneumonia can be treated; that is, the personality can be given the best opportunity of making its own adjustment.

MOTHER LOVE "DANGEROUS"

Mother love may be beautiful, but it is also dangerous. Many mothers who laud themselves for the beauty of their love for their children are in truth vampires who destroy the personalities of their children.

The aetiology of mental disorders does seem to date from infancy. The State would save vast sums of public money and humanity would be saved untold misery if preventative medicine were more widely organised in this sphere.

Dr. Vaughan, late headmaster of Rugby, spoke of what he described as the contemptuous way mother love had been spoken of. Mother love, he said, was sometimes mistaken, but men could think of it only as one of the redeeming things in their lives.

Dr. Rex Knight, Aberdeen, speaking about child clinics, said, "a doting mother, who will not realise that children become adults only by acquiring emotional independence and a sense of personal responsibility, can so tie her child's affection to herself that, unless treatment intervenes, the child never grows up emotionally, but remains infantile all his or her life."

Dr. Knight mentioned several cases of abnormal children and said in one case a girl who stole about the money in buying sweets which she haughtily distributed to her schoolfellows. This led to the discovery that she and her companions knew that she was illegitimate and that she was ashamed of the fact and resentful of the attitude is aroused in others.

"She stole in order to be able for a fleeting moment to patronise those who 'ruin' her," added Dr. Knight.

POPULAR MODELS

"Comfort in Hats." The draped beret promises to be the most popular model of the new season. Most women will find that they can adapt it to their particular style.

THE USES OF A LEMON

If your milk has turned, and has not been boiled, add a little lemon juice to it, heat slowly till curd separates from whey, strain into a colander or on to sieve covered with cheese cloth, drain, add a little cream and salt, form into little cakes, and serve as cream cheese.

Milk curdled with lemon juice, by the way, will make light scones and cakes, and is much better for the purpose than plain milk. Lemon juice and water will clean cane-seated chairs and straw hats if they are not too dirty.

FOOD FALLACIES

Too Many Tins and Too Little Greens

Common weakness in working-class diet were pointed out by Leslie Harris when he addressed the Industrial Welfare Society at Oxford recently.

The average kind of middle class diet taken in this country was adequate, he said, provided that four conditions were complied with. It must be reasonably varied, one good protein dish must be given daily—i.e. a reasonable portion of meat, fish, or cheese—fresh fruit or salad should be eaten daily, and a common tendency to be sparing with milk must be avoided.

The most usual deficiencies in working-class diets were:—

Too little vegetables, fresh fruits, milk, butter, and eggs taken.

Too much food tinned, preserved, refined, dried or compressed. More brown bread might be eaten instead of white.

Growing children often given insufficient "body building food."

There was still a very wide gap between the well-to-do and the industrial classes in such matters as physique, in the incidence of disease, and in the death-rate. Their aim, whether as nutritionists or industrial welfare workers, was to bridge the gap.

THRILLS IN AFRICA

Engineer's Experiences in Jungle

Struggling through grass as tall as trees; encountering a lion while unarmed; crossing rivers on tree trunks; spending the night among herds of elephants—these are some of the experiences, not of an explorer or big game hunter, but of an educational "missionary."

He is Mr. J. Steele, of the British Institute of Engineering Technology, who was sent to Africa to deal with the hundreds of inquiries from men in the remote outposts of civilisation, anxious to train in their spare time for British engineering degrees.

It was to maintain contact with present students and to give advice to others anxious to embark on new careers that Mr. Steele undertook a 3,500 miles tour through Rhodesia, Northern Transvaal, and the Zambesi Valley.

"The roads over which I passed," says Mr. Steele in a report received in London, "are filled with surprises for the unwary traveller. The road soon finished and mingled with the bush, and I had to clear my own way across boulders and through elephant grass, that rose 12 to 15 feet in height. Descending the valley of the Zambesi the grass grew so high that the sky was dark overhead. It was as though I were driving through an endless tunnel."

"To complicate matters further, the elephants had cleared a path for themselves, leaving trees leaning sideways in their wake. Some of these trees had rotted and left stumps in the road grown over with grass. In addition, the parts over which the elephants had wandered were pitted as though with meteor holes."

HOME MADE PONTOON.

"On reaching the banks of the Zambesi I had to wait all night till the Greek trader, who runs a home-made pontoon there, came to fetch me across. Elephants were near at hand so I turned up the windows of the sedan—a flimsy enough shelter between the elephants and myself."

"The next morning the pontoon arrived. It was constructed from two canoes, which were hollowed out trunks of trees patched together with corrugated iron and lashed with tree grass."

"After another couple of hundred miles of the type of country I have described I struck the Great North Road. It was simply two tracks leading North, pitted and hogbacked."

"One evening, before reaching the Copper Belt, with my lights full on I came across something that appeared like a jackal to me, but I was too tired to reach for my gun, and thought to run the creature down. It sat quietly on its haunches waiting, while it swept the ground with its tail. I accelerated, and, to my surprise, the animal held its ground. In the lights of the car it grew suddenly enormous in size, and I saw that it was a huge lion. I hastily left the road and waited for the lion to depart."

Mr. Steele said that the type of courses most popular with men in lonely outposts are civil and constructional engineering, surveying, mechanical and electrical engineering, wireless, radio, and, strangely enough, television.

PRESS CENSORSHIP

"Menacing Challenge,"
Says Institute President

"The demands upon the talent, foresight, and judgment of the journalist are ever increasing," said Mr. Henry J. Whittick, in the course of his presidential address at the conference of the Institute of Journalists at Blackpool.

"I belong to a school of journalism which does not believe either in sensationalism or stunts," but sets its faith on news that is carefully sifted and accurately presented," he said.

He deprecated the "absurd spirit of competition to be first with the news," without always being sure that news is really being sent forth.

"Education comes by reading and the power of the printed word remains unchallenged and indisputable. It is for us to maintain this supremacy by the thoroughness and reliability of our work."

Referring to the extent to which the freedom of the Press has been encroached upon, Mr. Whittick said, "This is an issue which constitutes a menacing challenge—a challenge which we shall not shrink."

A free Press was the rock of the liberty of the people. "The world, slowly recovering from the shattering effects of a war unparalleled in history, is searching for light. Each nation desiring to sit under its own roof tree has become self-centred and super-sensitive, and the resultant acute nationalism implies an uncharted sea with rocks and shoals abounding."

It was, therefore, vital, maintained Mr. Whittick, that the Press should "be able to throw the searching beams of truth across the waters."

"IRON RULE."

To know that two-thirds of the world's people were under the iron rule of censorship must arouse in this free country the gravest misgiving.

Mrs. and Miss Goebbels, mother and sister of Germany's Propaganda Minister, out for a morning stroll.

"Official versions handed out to a muzzled Press become a dope, evil in its effects, leaving the victims a pitiable spectacle, because those in whom freedom of conscience has been implanted are left in a condition worse than that of a slave enchained."

The speaker paid tribute to the correspondents of British newspapers who had handled foreign news during the critical times. The fact that some journals went banned would not, he said, prevent correspondents from doing their duty, often at great personal risk, as events had proved. "British correspondents have indeed upheld the great traditions of our Press in circumstances of acute stress."

Mr. Whittick was of the opinion that the use of "news" columns had been somewhat overdone in recent years. "While the signing of articles is amply justified on occasion," he said, "I sometimes long for the wholesome, effective, and able anonymous articles with which we used to be satisfied. There is sometimes too much infusion of individual views instead of a reflection of the considered opinion of the paper itself."

One cause for gratification, in Mr. Whittick's view, was the close attention newspapers were giving to the "increasing tendency to issue threats at law on the flimsiest and most vexatious pretexts. Adventures of this kind must be thwarted. No doubt we could each give illustrations of this contemptible practice, and we all trust that a firm stand will be maintained by all newspapers."

HEAVY RESPONSIBILITIES.

Turning sympathetically to "the very grave difficulties" confronting their colleagues consequent upon the dispute in the newspaper industry in the Irish Free State, Mr. Whittick expressed "the sincere hope that no permanent division will result to newspaper activities there. We have witnessed in these incidents in Ireland the serious

GIRL TURNS
INTO BOY*ASTONISHING
METAMORPHOSIS*NOW "SHE" CAN BE
A FATHER

Little, France, Oct. 3.

The strange case of Alice Henriette Acces, a peasant girl who has turned into a boy, has been confirmed by a doctor here, but for the time being "Henriette" must remain a "girl" until her birth certificate can be changed from "Female" to "Male."

The "girl" was newly baptised Henri Acces, following a decision by Dr. Robert Minne that "she" had turned into a male youth in one of the most unusual medical cases in history.

The youth, despite the doctor's decision, however, was obligated to appear in a girl's robes for communion at the town of Lens, where for years he, as a "she" sang in the choir in a suspiciously cracked soprano. She must continue to wear girl's clothing until a formal sex certificate can be delivered to the Town Hall.

The youth, now 16 years old, commemorated his becoming a male after 16 years as a girl by smoking a cigarette and doing his father's trousers. He asked the correspondent whether it was legally probable that his peasant parents' "daughter's dot," or dowry on marriage, remains payable.

Dr. Minne, the family physician, confirmed to the United Press that Henriette had undergone a metamorphosis.

"Henri's masculinity is unquestionable," said Dr. Minne, "I shall recommend an operation to make the metamorphosis complete. I think it entirely possible that the operation will enable Henri to become a father."

Medical opinion generally was reported to be that the youth can marry and be the father of children in one or two years. He has had a moustache since last Christmas.—United Press.

IN HARNESS AT 74*Ben Tillett's Enthusiasm For Trade Unionism

Mr. Ben Tillett, the veteran of the Trade Union movement and a former M.P., recently celebrated his 74th birthday by attending a dinner, in company with a number of prominent Trade Union leaders, at the National Trade Union Club, of which he has lately been chairman.

Mr. Tillett was a distinguished visitor at the recent Trades Union Congress at Weymouth. He has been present at the Congress since 1890, formerly for many years as an official leader of the dockers. At Belfast six years ago he was president of the Congress.

Interviewed, Mr. Tillett said—"I have, since my early days, had a love for the great Trade Union movement, and early in my career I became attached to it. I have never lost my interest in it, and I hope I shall remain in contact with it until the end comes."

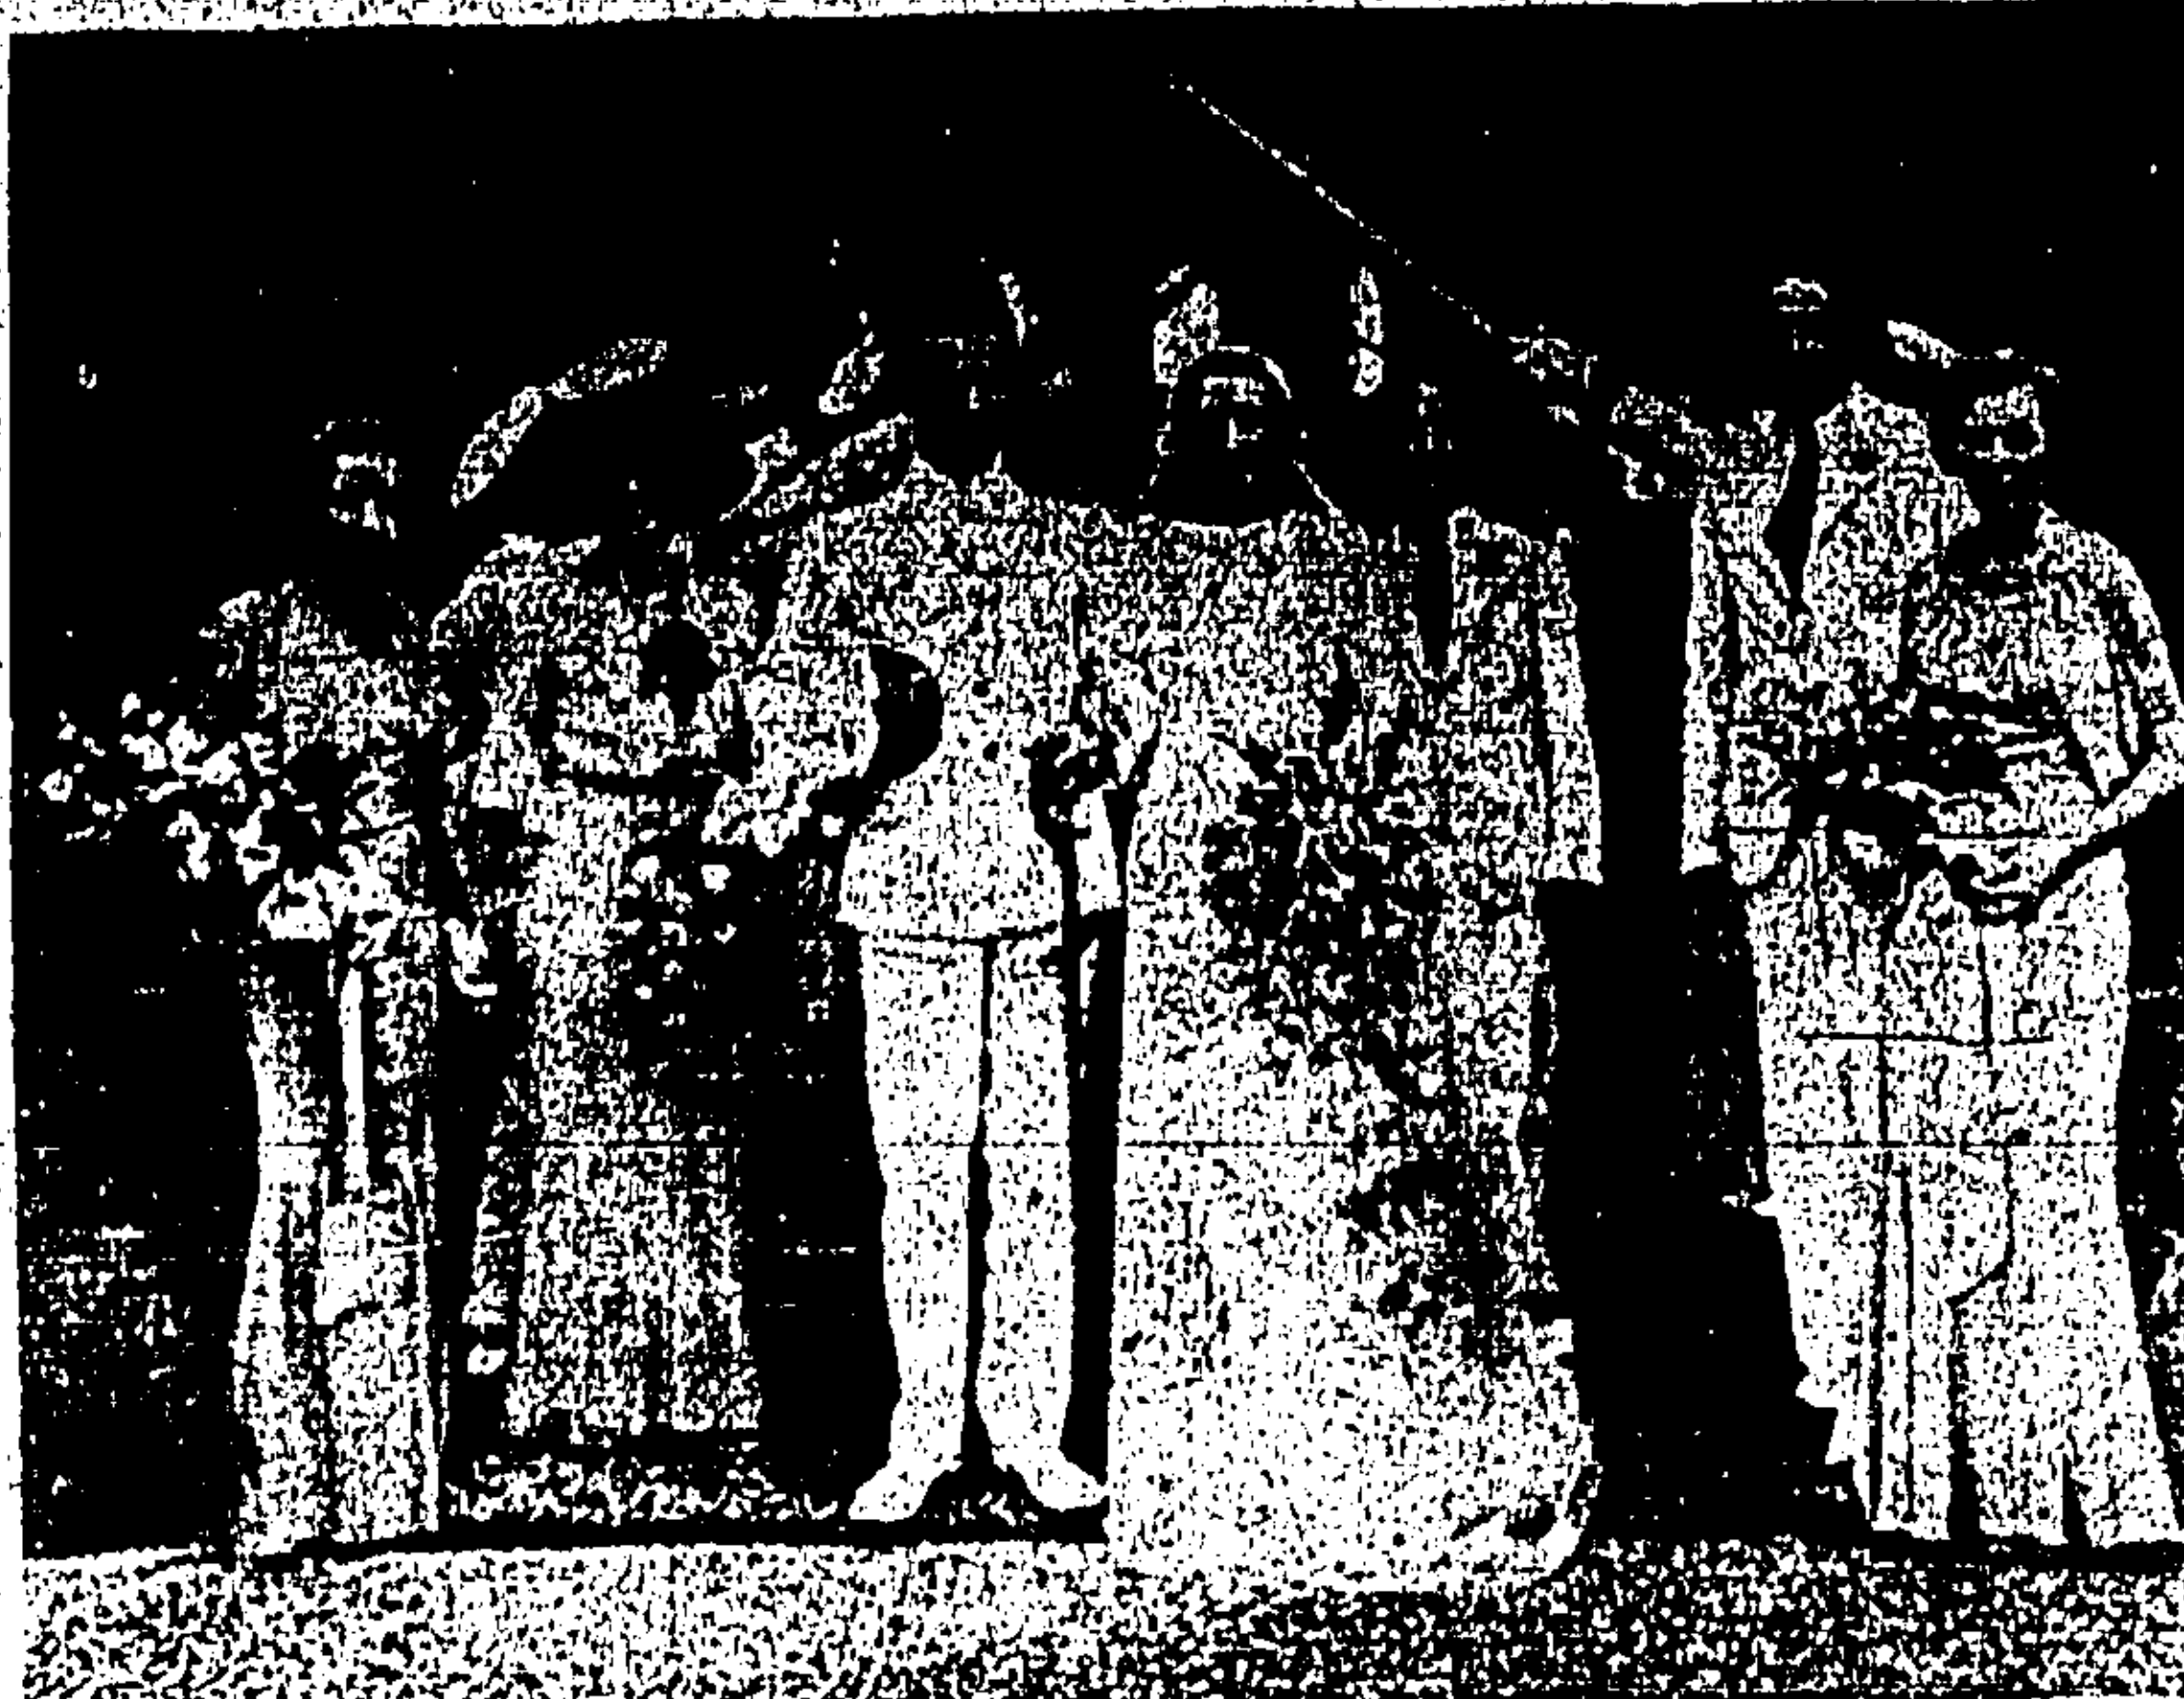

"I think I can claim to be one of the oldest of the Trade Union leaders who have been present at and officially connected with the annual T.U.C. There are only a few of us now over 70. Others are Sir James Sexton, Sir Ben Turner, Mr. Will Thorne, M.P.; Mr. W. Straker, of the Northumbrian miners. There is also, of course, Mr. Peter Lee, of Durham, the late president of the Miners' Federation, who is 70."

"I hope to remain in harness in the cause of the workers and the Labour movement. My one hope is that I shall never lose the regard and esteem of my old friends in the Trade Union and Labour ranks."

effects due to the absence of newspapers." He recalled, as significant now, the line which a journal in America, in 1890, had under its title—"This is published to prevent false reports."

Looking forward to the future, Mr. Whittick concluded—"I feel that we can view the prospects with confidence in the greatness of our task. Those who conduct our newspapers set a laudable example of generous devotion to duty. The triumphs of the Press are those of principle and justice and a high sense of public responsibility."

"The Press remains an instrument of social progress, ever ready to discharge its heavy responsibilities. Journalists are held in the highest respect for their efficiency and service and their consistency in following the golden rules of fairness and impartiality, well-considered opinion, and a sense of duty to readers and the community."

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Wynyard Brooks, well known Shanghai residents. The couple left aboard the Hector for England.

OUR CHERISHED
BELIEFS*Lord Raglan Does Some
"De-Bunking"

A good many of the cherished beliefs and habits of mankind came in for some severe handling by Lord Raglan, addressing the anthropology section of the British Association at Aberdeen.

Lord Raglan, in a paper on the cult of animals, said ferocity was never attributed to a lamb because it was so absurd, but really it was no more absurd than the attribution of wisdom to an owl.

Dealing with symbols, he said that it would take an hour for anyone to attempt to explain why the olive branch was a symbol of peace.

Probably, he added, psychologists would not agree with his views on symbolism, but he believed they were like men who found a tennis ball at the bottom of a rabbit-hole and from that concluded that tennis balls originated in rabbit-holes. Psychologists started from the wrong end.

Other points from Lord Raglan's speech were:—

It is no more natural for a man to eat cooked foods than for a dog to eat dog biscuits.

Hindus must not eat a sacred cow, Jews must not eat the pig, and the English must not eat the sacred horse.

Even to-day some people refuse to eat the hare because they believe that the souls of women go into hares. Connected with this belief is the one that witches take the form of hares.

It is not the sight or the taste but the idea of eating the animal which fills a person with horror.

I have never heard of anyone who plays with the idea that roast mutton would make him sneeplish.

It is no more natural for a man to wear clothes than it is for an organ-grinder's monkey.

Talking is unnatural. A child learns to talk by imitation.

Magic is a clockwork toy wound up 2,000 years ago and is taking an unconscionably long time to run down.

Attributed To Christ

A suggestion that some of the sayings attributed to Christ in the Gospels might have been made by some later prophet, believing him-out in more or less ecstatic deliverances which they believed to be under the control of the spirit of Jesus.

"Even in the synoptic Gospels we must be on our guard lest we mistake for authentic words of Christ certain sayings which may have been the deliverance of some prophet speaking in the spirit of

Although the typhoon which swept Osaka failed to destroy many of the more substantial structures in the industrial city, it reduced to ruins the majority of the native-style buildings. In the city, telegraph poles and other uprights were blown to the ground. The loss of life was great.

self to be under the influence of Christ's spirit, was made by Canon B. H. Streeter, Professor of Queen's College, Oxford, at the Modern Churchmen's Conference at Birmingham recently.

"We must remember," he said, "that the New Testament era was one of the revival of prophecy. Everywhere in the Church there were men and women who hurst Jesus—deliverances believed by the prophet himself and accepted by the community as authentic messages from Christ in heaven. Some of those messages may well have been written down, and might easily have been gathered up, along with authentic sayings of Jesus, in the synoptic Gospels or even in an older source."

This R.A.F. seaplane with five men on board crashed in heavy seas in the Channel recently. Fortunately they were able to call for help with their wireless.

RUSSIAN WITH VODKA

EXPULSION ORDER MADE

A 30-year-old unemployed Russian, V. G. Goussoff, was charged this morning, before Mr. E. I. Wynne-Jones, at the Kowloon Magistracy, with the possession of 3½ gallons of dutiable wine, and with entering the Colony without a valid passport.

The prosecution stated that the defendant was arrested in Sallabury Road near the Star Ferry, on October 3. He had come from Shanghai on the steamer Anshing, but came ashore and tried to sell 3½ gallons of vodka in Nathan Road.

It was also stated that the defendant was known to the police. Two months ago he arrived from Manila in transit, and was warned by the police that he was not allowed to stay in the Colony without a passport.

Defendant alleged that he was only passing through, on his way to Canton. A ticket for his passage to Canton was produced.

You have already been told you cannot come here without a passport, said Mr. Wynne-Jones, in making an expulsion order. For smuggling in the wine, defendant was fined $100, in default, six weeks' hard labour. The duty of the wine amounted to $19.68.

BLOODSHED IN SPAIN

Leddoux, twice premier of Spain.

The new Cabinet contains eight Radical members, three Popular Action men, two Agrarians, one Liberal Democrat and one Independent.

Among them is Senor Ricardo Samper, also a former premier, who will be Foreign Minister.

There are six new ministers. At the moment everything is peaceful throughout Spain and Madrid, though restless, has seen no disturbances, but at midnight to-night, according to well-informed persons, a general strike will be called.

The Government will do all in its power to keep the machinery of state and industry functioning.—Reuter Special and United Press.

GAMBLING RAID SEQUEL

DOOR LOCKED AGAINST POLICE

Two of the nineteen Chinese arrested during a gambling raid on the third floor of No. 75A Hollywood Road in the early hours of yesterday morning, were convicted on charges of gambling at pai kau and fined $3 each by Mr. Macfadyen in the Central Police Court this morning. All the absentees forfeited bail of $3 each. Table money amounting to $8.25 was placed in the funds of Poor Box.

During the raid, two men, Leung On, 18, and Leung Hung, 23, either jumped or fell from the verandah, a height of 41 feet, in an attempt to escape. Leung On died in the Government Civil Hospital while Leung Hung was seriously injured.

Before evidence was called this morning, Detective-Inspector J. Murphy said it would be established that the door of the premises was bolted against the police. In that case the defendants present in Court would have committed an offence under Section 12, but they were not charged under that.

The Magistrate: Under that Section, the prosecution would have to show that these people caused the door to be closed.

Insp. Murphy: When the police are outside and the people inside, it is impossible to see who is keeping the door.

Inspector Murphy added that the police found gaming instruments.

Detective-Sergeant Gowans, who conducted the raid, mentioned that all the implements found related to the game of pai kau.

Detective Leung C. 490, said that at 3.30 a.m., when the police had to break down the door, there was a general stampede. Three persons lying on the cockpit and two small boys were not arrested.

In a cubicle next to the sitting room there was a large round table with a blanket spread over it. On the table were counters and money. In another room there were two mah jongg tables but no mah jongg sets were on them.

driving his car, No. 2013, in Lee
House Street on August 25.Mr. T. P. K. Kemble, of Messrs.
Wilkinson & Grist, appearing for the defence, pleaded guilty to the charges. He said that Lt. Wood only arrived in April and had been at Welhaiwel. He had only been driving for a few days when the offence was committed. Since that time, the posts had been repainted."A man does not take his ship travelling rug, the property of a "boy" employed at the Hotel. The thefts occurred between December, 1933, and October 3, 1934.Detective-Sergeant Davies appeared for the prosecution.

Upon being called, the defendant promptly demanded the return of his turban, which had been taken from him by the police.
He said that, according to his religion, he was entitled to have it back.His Worship: I believe so. Give it back to him. I don't know what he will do, if he has to go to pri-

HONGKONG'S AERIAL
FUTURE

Those who are watching aviation developments as they affect the Far East will have noted with interest the strong plea made before the U. S. Federal Aviation Commission by Major Rickenbacker for the inauguration of a trans-Pacific passenger and mail service. Whilst there are difficulties to be overcome in establishing such a project, they are no manner of means insuperable. As Major Rickenbacker points out, the Atlantic has been spanned, and there is no reason to suppose that, provided a real effort were made, the Pacific cannot also be conquered. The value of such a service could hardly be over-estimated, bringing about, as it would, far closer and more rapid contact between the East and the West. With the United States and Japan working in close co-operation, the way would be opened up for transforming this dream of many years past into an actuality. The possibilities of such a development are not without interest to Hongkong. They will be all the more readily appreciated if it is borne in mind that the day cannot be far distant when this Colony will take its rightful place as a link in the Empire's aerial services. It has long been known that the Imperial Airways definitely contemplates an extension of its service from Singapore to Hongkong, and, as His Excellency the Governor indicated in the Legislative Council last week, both the Imperial Government and the Hongkong Government attach the utmost importance to developments along these lines. Unfortunately, no definite agreement has yet been reached with countries over whose territory it is hoped to be able to secure flying rights, but there is no reason to suppose that such obstacles as are being encountered in this direction will not be overcome. When the link between Singapore and Hongkong is forged, there is every possibility of Imperial Airways endeavouring to interest itself in connections with Shanghai and, eventually, with Japan as well. So much has, indeed, already been indicated. Should these ideas come to fruition, and the suggested trans-Pacific service also be instituted, it will be seen that there is in prospect in the days ahead a complete circling of the globe, with Hongkong figuring prominently on the route. It may take some years before this vision is translated into concrete action, but the possibilities are well worth keeping in mind. All of which

SAFE FRONTIERS

Generally speaking, when a German and a Frenchman got together in the past they would find something to argue about. Not so the brilliant scientists who have succeeded in inventing one of the most humbly horrible weapons the world has ever known. They are French and German, but instead of contributing a quarrel to history, they have given us the ray-gun. It sounds incredible, but the thing is apparently true. By turning on the power, it is now possible to direct a "shot" of light from a weapon which will, when it strikes a man, stun him completely. The inventors appear to believe that the ray-gun will be able to reach almost any distance and will enable a country to throw up a barrage of concentrated light through which no living thing can pass, and still retain its consciousness. Presumably, if the current were just a little stronger it would kill.

WORTH ADVERTISING

Whether the weapon will turn out to be as effective as the inventors claim it will be, remains to be seen. But aviators in future wars will have something besides "Archie," the familiar old anti-aircraft guns, tracer-bullets and gas to contend with if the new French weapon is any good. They will have the unpleasant suspicion that someone half a hundred miles away may be turning a light-gun on and sweeping the sky in their vicinity, and they will know that if they fly within its reach they will be most certainly doomed... unless by that time there is some system evolved to counteract the ray-gun. If it does nothing else, however, the ray-gun will possibly deter any belligerent group from thinking too seriously of crossing a neighbouring frontier. The ray-gun is something that should be thoroughly advertised.

TOWARDS SAME GOAL

If the Franco-German inventors have given France something which will protect her frontiers, and thus given Europe further cause to hope for a continuation of peace, others are working towards the same goal from other directions. The American and Japanese delegates are on their way to London to participate in the three-power discussions to the end that the present naval armaments reduced. At the same time, Mr. William Green, of the American Federation of Labour, is talking about attempting to weld the British and American labour organisations into one whole, for the purpose of throwing the weight of influence of the working mass into the scale whenever war threatens to upset the world's equilibrium. In either of these instances—much may be accomplished.

UGLY SHACKS

Longer ago than we care to remember, we drew attention to a group of ugly shacks which disfigure the hillside of the island just off the main road at Wan Chai Gap. We had then hoped that it would be sufficient to point out the disfigurement and that in time these structures would disappear. But they still persist, and at the moment it seems as if others are in the course of erection. At any rate, there are, in all, in this ravine, eight or nine of these shacks, and similar shacks—a blot on the admittedly fine scenery of the locality. To whom they belong, and what precise purpose they serve, we are not quite sure, but common belief is that they are P.W.D. structures. If so, and they are really necessary, it would surely be better that they were replaced by less unsightly erections. We cannot imagine that they are privately owned; if they were, orders for their removal would have been made long ago. Is there any reason why the Government should not conform to standards which it expects others to observe?

A ROYAL TEA

A Royal Tea for 10,000 children and a Royal Gift of an order for 5/- to each of the 16,000 needy people are being planned by the Lord Mayor of Adelaide to coincide with the Duke of Gloucester's visit to that city during his forthcoming tour of Australia. The tea will cost a shilling for each child, and the Lord Mayor hopes to obtain £500 for it from the citizens' Committee formed to arrange His Royal Highness's visit. The wives of men on rations and single unemployed men will be included as recipients of the Royal Gift for which it is hoped to raise £5,000. It will be a happy day for Melbourne!

illustrates the point that Hongkong must be on the alert to work in at the appropriate moment, with schemes from which it would be sheer folly to remain aloof.

PORTUGAL'S RE-BIRTH
IN DICTATORSHIP

There seemed to be little enough in the coup d'état in 1926, characterized by The Times then as "a breeze on the Tagus," which ushered in the present regime in Portugal, to lead observers to suppose that that revolt of the Army and Navy against the so-called constitutional governments, was to become the means of saving Portugal from the political and economic confusion then prevailing in that country. The inept methods of the political demagogues were tearing the country asunder, and the Dictatorship that was set up to replace the disastrous constitutional forms of administration came to fill a much needed want.

That was eight years ago. The intervening years have come to show that a Dictatorship can exist and yet be the means of improving the lot of a long-suffering people, maintaining order and stimulating the resources of the country.

If for no other reason than that the Dictatorship has discovered Dr. Oliveira de Salazar, than whom a more level-headed Minister for Finance scarcely exists in any country at the present time, this present regime would have earned the gratitude of the Portuguese nation.

Eight short years have wrought wonders in Portugal and the Portuguese colonies, under the sane and wise leadership of General Carmona, President of the Republic of Portugal, and the whole-hearted co-operation of the several ministers of the Cabinet, and the people of Portugal have come to learn that the Dictatorship has had nothing but the best interests of the nation at heart in taking over the leadership of the nation.

Long and trying experience had led the Portuguese to be sceptical of the Dictatorship in its early days, but the new Government, backed by the Army and the Navy, intended to govern, and it was soon clear that General Carmona and his faithful supporters were making a real effort to improve the situation of the country.

The position of Portugal before those days was once admirably summed up by a leading English paper which stated that, "in sixteen years there had been sixteen revolutions and armed rebellions; forty ministries had fallen; over four hundred politicians had been Cabinet Ministers; the number of strikes, bomb outrages, financial scandals, and programmes of reforms was amazing; but the quiet citizens who did not belong to a favoured trade union, to a political club, or to a secret society observed that taxation, the cost of living, and the national debt rose with alarming rapidity, and, in spite of the political excitement provided for him, was seized with an ungrateful disgust which facilitated the coming of the autocrats."

On the anniversary of the establishment of the Portuguese Republic (October 5) it is fitting that reference should be made to the almost phenomenal changes that have taken place in the last eight years, for the picture of Portugal to-day is one that reflects the greatest credit on the Government and its leaders. The national debt has been funded and the regular publication of financial returns has created confidence among the nations. The old warships have been scrapped and naval reconstruction on a large scale has served to focus the attention of the world on the tremendous possibilities of the Portuguese market, while the programme of national revival has stimulated the attention of the country to the soundness of the Portuguese Government's theory of a doctrine of hard work and financial stability.

President Carmona.

The record of splendid achievement has stirred the consciousness of the country, and recent colonial exhibitions and official encouragement of industry have contributed to demonstrate that Portugal, always capable of producing, is now quickly building up an industrial organization to supply the home and colonial markets and even to compete in other countries.

National reconstruction has contributed not a little to the reduction of unemployment, and this may be seen in the recent port works in many parts of Portugal and the colonies and the carrying out of an extensive programme of road-building through the length and breadth of Portugal and in the colonies as well. The nationally important industries of agriculture and fishing, besides countless private enterprises, encouraged by peace and order, have taken on new leases of life, and at no time in the history of the nation have there been so many signs of activity and confidence in the development of the resources of the country. They have all received encouragement and protection. The result is that throughout the country there is evidence of work and the disappearance of civil strife.

It is no wonder, therefore, that the people of Portugal will continue to acclaim General Carmona and Dr. Salazar as true leaders and give them the support that they need to carry on the good work begun and maintained during the last few years for the development of Portugal and in the best interests of the nation.

Friends of Portugal will view with increasing satisfaction the many signs of Portugal's new era of political re-establishment and on the anniversary of the Republic will associate themselves with the good wishes that go to Portugal and the Portuguese for the prosperity of the nation and the happiness of its people.—Contributed.

The Very Idea!

HONGKONG FOOT

By Eddie Kelly, Chiropractor

"ABSORBIN' JR.," as the alligator said, when he swallowed our son.

Actually, we don't know what put it into our head, unless it's that it's one of the things we've been using lately for our feet.

By now you will have guessed that we have Hongkong Foot.

It's shoes too bad.

We tried to tell the Editor this morning that we had Writer's cramp, but he wouldn't believe us. Got quite nasty about it. Said we were trying to dodge work.

Hongkong Foot is a terrible disease. It's caused by walking about bare-footed and perspiration.

Perspiration is a secondary disease that happens to you during the summer months. It strikes everybody the same way, and even animals get it. How many people, for instance, know that a dog perspires through his pants? The cure for perspiration is to eat plenty of Lifebuoy soap.

Getting back to foot diseases again, we don't see why it should be called Hongkong Foot, unless it's called that because it's the only interport we can win.

Sort of taking the line that if Shanghai wins the Football, we can have the Foot.

One way of getting rid of Hongkong Foot is to use the 559 guaranteed cures any chemist will sell you.

But the best way is to go and live in Shanghai, and start a local campaign to have the name changed to Shanghai Foot.

Since we've been married we learnt a lot about feet. Especially during the winter months, when the headache comes to bed.

For instance, she often calls us a toad. That's because we take more interest in our instep than in her now step-lins. Says that, now we're married, we're more interested in her sex than her sex.

We just scorn her. Feel hith no fury like a woman's corn.

Treating a woman like this requires courage. You've got to admit that it's no mean feat.

We've had some terrible arguments about the way she says we neglect her. Says we never admired her figure the way we used to before we were married. Triumphant pointed out our wedding notice.

"What more do you want?" we asked, and quoted:—"Mrs. Edward Kelly, knee Angelina Whales-teeth!"

Grabbed us by the hair, and tore out huge chunks of it. Grasped her dress to shake her, but had to desist because it torso.

Oh, we could go on like this for daze and daze, but the Editor says he's had enough of this footling kind of thing.

Besides, we've got to break out once in a while.

INSULL
TRIAL
OPENSSTOCK-BOOSTING
OPERATIONSPROSECUTION'S
CASE OUTLINE

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic News
Service, Ltd., London, 1934. Received, October
5, 1934, 4.30 a.m.)

Chicago, Oct. 4.

Allegations of colossal swindles perpetrated upon thousands of American investors, were made by the prosecution at the commencement of the case against Mr. Samuel Insull and his sixteen co-defendants including his son, to-day.

The District Attorney, who is in charge of the case against the former trust baron, described the stock sales in the Insull Corporation Securities Company as "a simple conspiracy to swindle and cheat and to defraud the public."

"The company," he added, "was simply established as a dumping ground for large quantities of stock acquired in market deals which were undertaken to boost the price of Insull securities."

The trial is attracting the widest attention. Newspapers from all over the world are attending. Mr. Insull is English-born and educated, and was the partner and friend of the late Mr. Thomas A. Edison, the famous inventor. It was Mr. Insull who organized Mr. Edison's manufacturing and distributing organizations, and who pushed the Edison company's sales to high levels.—Reuter Special.

SCANDALOUS OPERATIONS.

The Prosecutor Mr. Dwight Green in his address to the jury said the Insull corporation had taken a $100,000,000 loss due to "a simple conspiracy to swindle, cheat and defraud the public.... through false and fraudulent representations."

He said the Insull interests had paid $150,000 for stock that would have cost the public $25,000,000 and the brokers, Monars, Halsey and Stuart received free stock which would have cost the public $25,000,000.—United Press.

MARYSE HILTZ ON HER WAYAnother Flight To Far East

Peking, Oct. 4.
It is learned here that the famous French airwoman, Mlle. Maryse Hiltz, will start on a Paris-Tokyo long distance flight to-morrow or the day after.

This is her second long distance flight to the Far East.

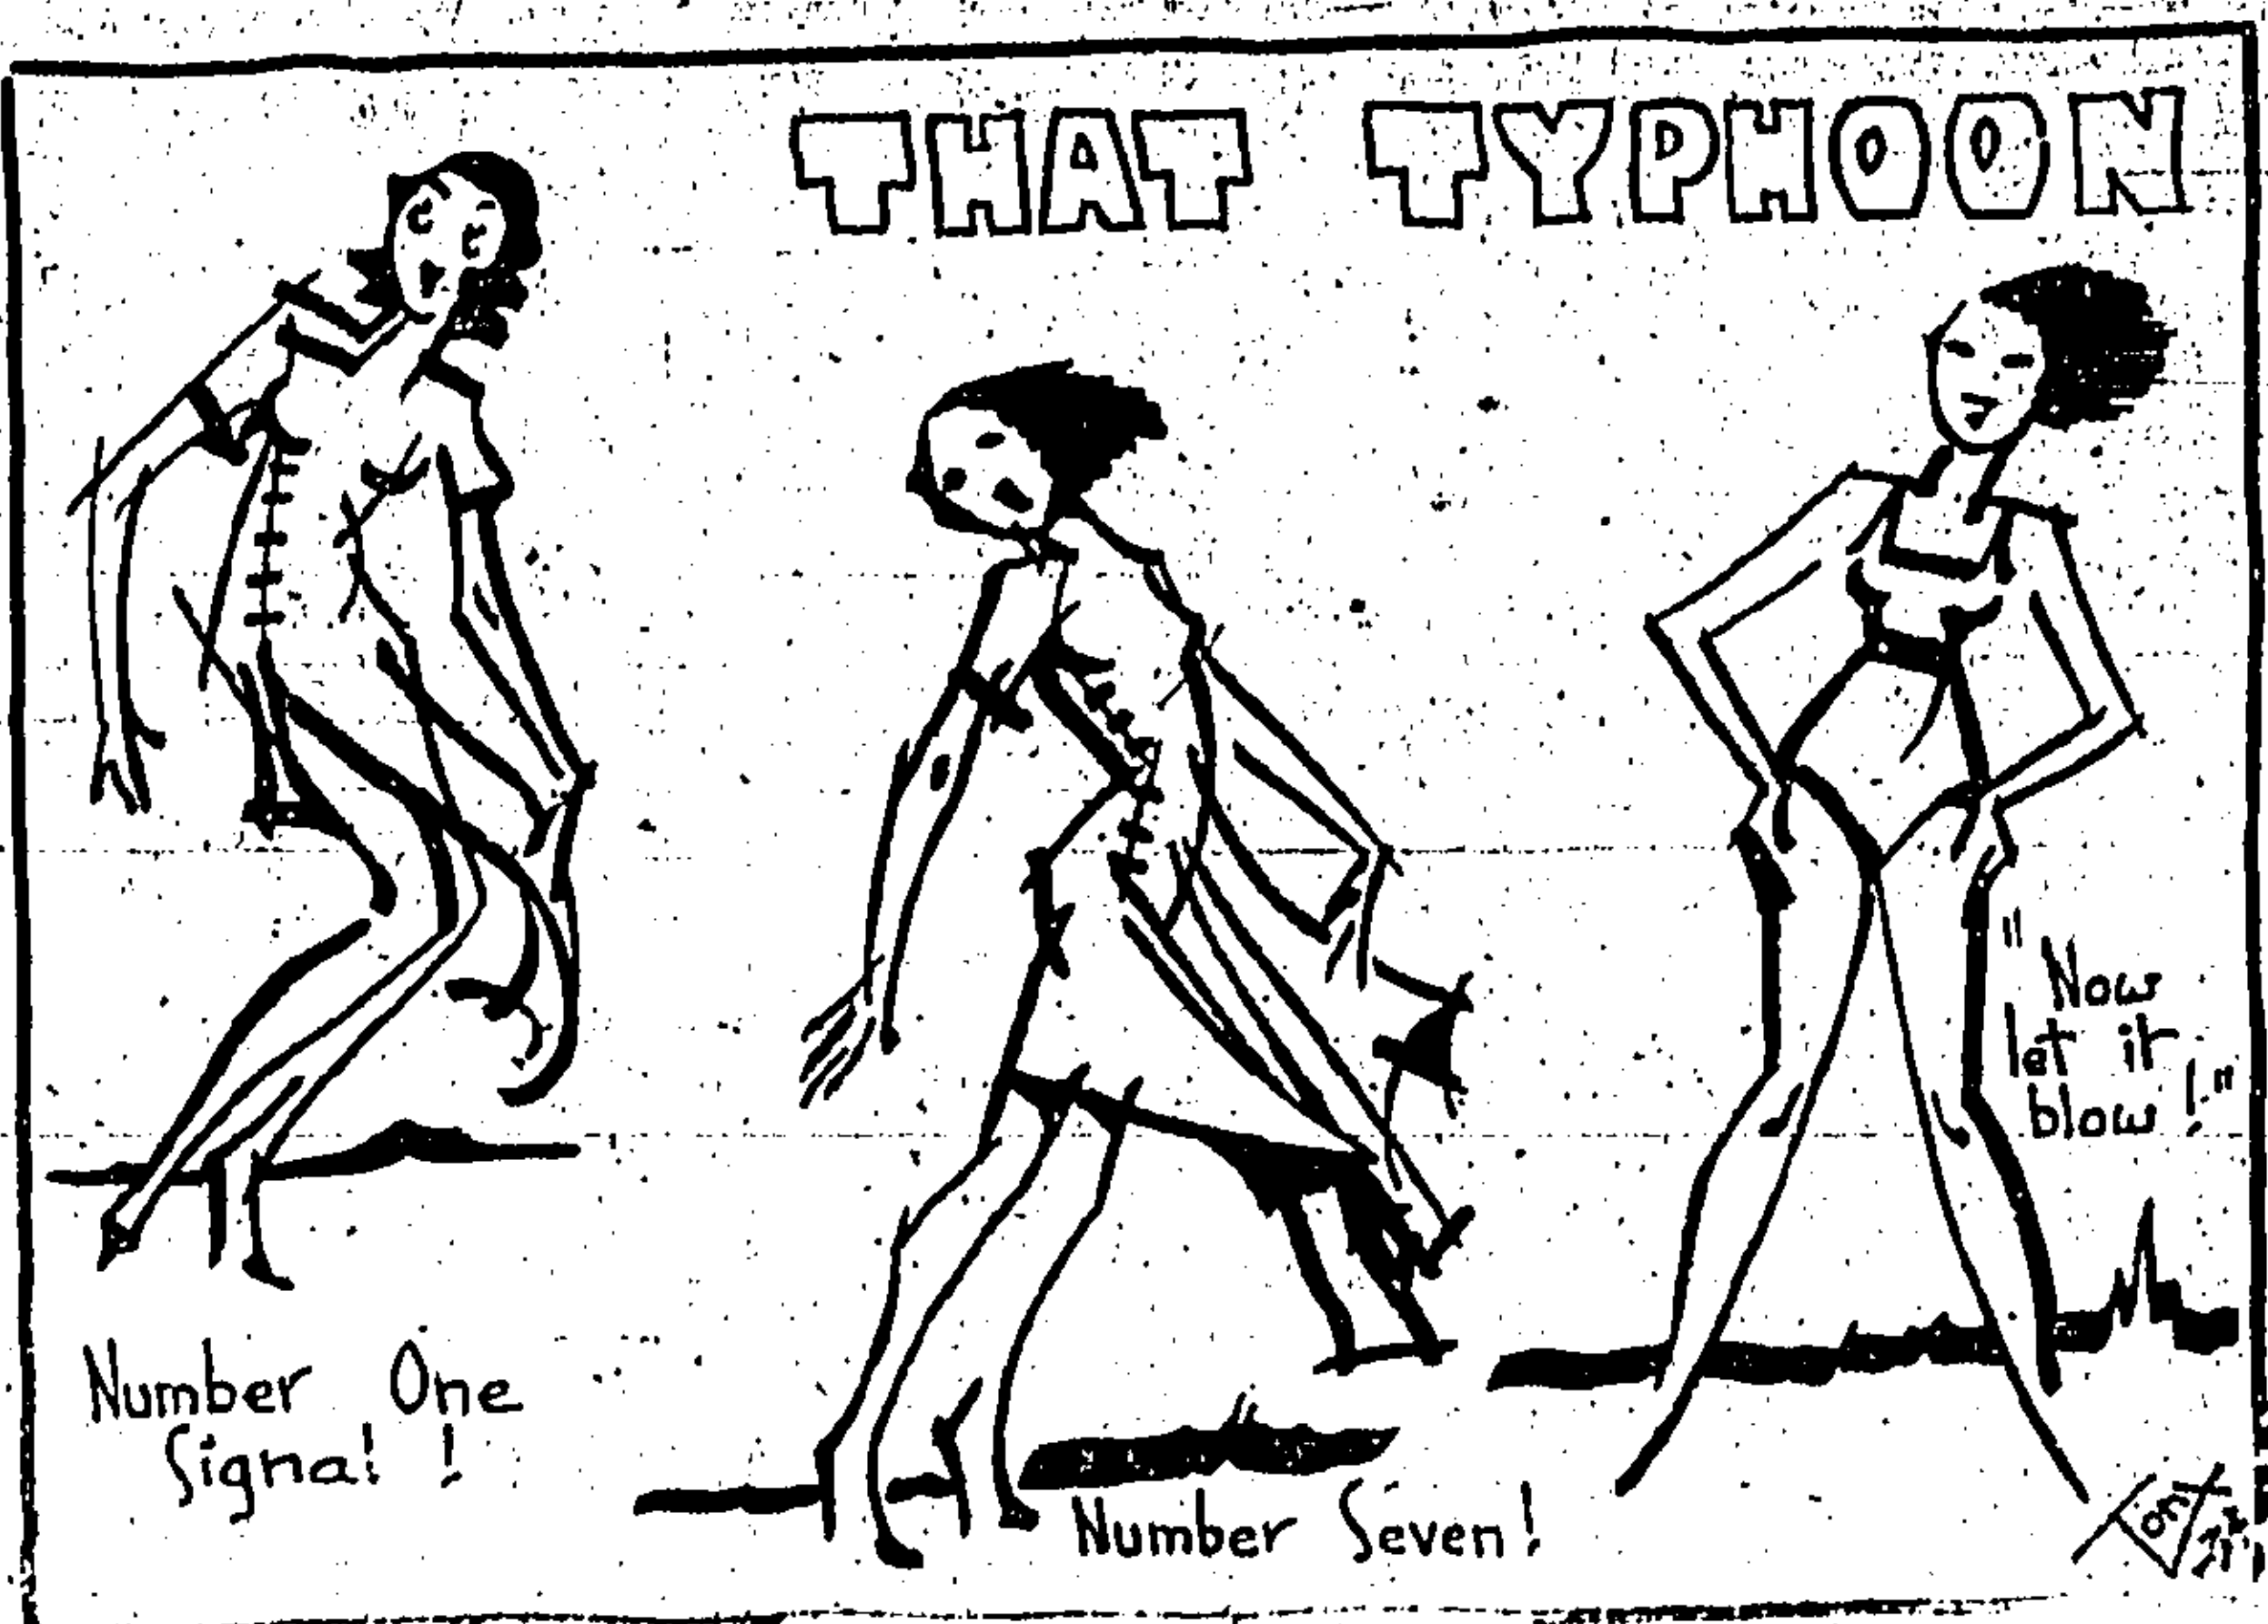

She is expected to make a landing for a short time at Swatow, Shanghai and Tsingtao in the course of her flight, and will arrive here on November 10. From Peking she will continue her flight to Korea and thence to Japan.—Central News.

HEAVY FINE ON
EUROPEANMOTOR MISHAP
SEQUEL

At the Central Magistracy this morning, Mr. Hamilton gave his decision in the case in which T. Cranston, of the Jockey Club Stables, was charged on two counts as a sequel to the motor mishap in which accused knocked down and injured P.C. Fitzpatrick. On the charge of driving whilst in an intoxicated condition, the maximum fine of $250 was imposed. On the charge of driving without due care, defendant was cautioned.

CHINA'S IMPORTS OF NARCOTICS

Nanking, Oct. 5.
The Anti-opium Committee of China has written to the Ministry of Finance asking for data on the annual imports of cocaine and other kinds of narcotics in order to enable it to compile a report to be submitted to the Opium Committee of the League of Nations.—Central News.

MAXIMUM FINE ON
EUROPEANDriving Under Influence
Of Liquor

"I seriously considered at one time sending you to prison without the option of a fine; I am somewhat influenced in letting you off from going to prison as I know that your licence will be cancelled," remarked Mr. Hamilton in the Central Police Court this morning when giving his decision in the case in which T. Cranston, of the Jockey Club Stables, pleaded guilty to driving while under the influence of liquor on Wanchai Road on September 17 and driving without due care and caution.

The Magistrate imposed the maximum fine of $250 on the first charge and administered a caution on the minor charge.

Replying to his Worship, Cranston said he was in a position to pay the fine.

Giving his decision, Mr. Hamilton said he had considered the matter very carefully. It was obvious that it was no worse to knock a policeman down than to knock down anyone else; at the same time, it was not any better. In this case he had knocked down a man and afterwards crashed into the pavement.

On Wednesday Mr. R. H. Cole, of Messrs. Hall Brutton & Company appeared for the defendant, and asked permission to withdraw his original pleas of not guilty to both summonses, and plead guilty.

U.S. SEAMAN TO BE EXPELLEDMISSED SHIP IN HONGKONG

William Dadds, a young American seaman, was charged before Mr. Thomson in the Central Magistracy this morning with arriving in the Colony without a valid passport.

On the application of Sergeant Mottram, his Worship granted an expulsion order.

Sergeant Mottram explained that defendant was a member of the crew of the States Steamship vessel General Sherman which left for Shanghai on September 16. He missed his ship. The Company wanted to hold him as a deserter, but this was over-ruled by the American Consul, who directed that another ship be found for the man. Yesterday morning, Dadds was offered the San Pedro, but he stated he wanted to go on another ship. The matter was then taken up by the police who were asking for an expulsion order in order that he might be sent away on the General Lee to-day.

CUT OFF

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic News Service, Ltd., London, 1934. Received, October 5, 1934, 4.30 a.m.)

Louisville, Oct. 4.
The National Broadcasting Company cut off the speech which General Smedley D. Butler was making to the Association of Veterans of Foreign Wars here to-night.

The Louisville auditorium was linked to the national hook-up from New York to San Francisco, but the language of the former commanding officer of the U.S. Marine Corps was "too vigorous" for the radio audience, the company believed.

General Butler, following the meeting, when he was informed that his address on the air had been interrupted, and for what reason, merely remarked: "I was talking to veterans and they don't wear ruffles!"

The veterans themselves said they did not object to the General's language, but added that it was possible it might have been objectionable to any mixed company.—United Press.

NO PROGRESS IN
C.E.R. TALKSMANCHUKUO-SOVIET CONVERSATIONS

Tokyo, Oct. 5.
It is learned from reliable sources that no substantial progress has been made in the negotiations between Mr. Onishi, Manchukuo delegate, and M. Yureneff, Soviet Ambassador to Tokyo, which commenced shortly after a tentative agreement was reached on the price to be paid for the C.E.R.

Officials of the Manchukuo Foreign Office and the Soviet Embassy have had frequent interviews in which officials of the Japanese Foreign Office took the role of mediator, but so far no official announcement has been made regarding results.

Another obstruction to the complete success of the C.E.R. transfer negotiations is that the price agreement has not been approved of by the Japanese War Office, which caused embarrassment to the Foreign Office.—Central News.

LOCAL PORTUGUESE
CELEBRATELarge Gathering At Reception

In keeping with their countrymen all over the world, the Portuguese community of Hongkong to-day celebrated the twenty-fourth anniversary of the establishment of the Republic.

The local celebration took the form of a reception at the Club de Lusitano where over 200 guests were entertained by the acting Consul, Lieut. Francisco de Mello Costa, Marquez de Ficalho.

H. E. the Governor, Sir William Peel, was unable to attend but was represented by Capt. R. F. Walter, A.D.C., while Lieut. J. J. Abbott, A.D.C., represented H. E. the G.O.C., Major General O.C. Borrett.

Amongst others present were Pay Lieut. Cmdr. F.R. Porter, R.N., representing Commodore Frank Elliott, Hon. Sir Thomas Southorn, the Rt. Rev. H. Valtorta, Vicar Apostolic of Hongkong, Official and Unofficial members of the Executive and Legislative Councils, military and naval officers and members of the Consular Body.

Tonight His Majesty the King, the Consul said:—"On behalf of myself and the Portuguese community, I offer my very sincere thanks for your presence here on the occasion of our National Day. The attendance of the officials and members of the British community is evidence of the great friendship which has always existed between the British and Portuguese peoples. I also very sincerely thank the Consuls of all nations for their presence here to-day. I now ask you to join me in the toast of His Majesty the King."

After the toast had been honoured, the Hon. Sir Thomas Southorn expressed thanks on behalf of those present for the good wishes extended by the Consul and gave the gathering the toast "The President of the Portuguese Republic", which was cordially honoured.

HONGKONG AND MACAO FELICITATIONS.
His Excellency the Governor has sent the following telegram to His Excellency the Governor of Macao: "On the occasion of the 24th anniversary of the founding of the Republic of Portugal I have much pleasure in conveying the good wishes of myself and the Colony of Hongkong to Your Excellency and the Colony of Macao. It is a source of great satisfaction that the ancient friendship of our countries is so happily reflected in the cordial relations existing between Macao and Hongkong."

TORY DIEHARDS
REBUFFEDINDIA RESOLUTION
REJECTED

London, Oct. 4.

The subject of India was raised at the Conservative Conference by Sir Henry Page Croft, with a resolution urging that, while a gradual grant of a greater measure of self-government within the Provinces should be supported, the partnership of Britain and India in the Central Government of the Indian Empire must not be dissolved.

The motion was defeated, after a show of hands, in favour of an amendment which recorded that the Conference had last year decided that it would not reach a final conclusion in the subject until the Joint Select Committee had reported.

This amendment will be submitted to the Conference as a substantive motion.—British Wireless.

The Scouts themselves will, of course, present a grand opening and close as well as an item in each half. The proceeds of the concert are to be devoted to the funds of the 4th Hongkong and 4th Kowloon Troops.

Cannibals Now Prefer Pork
In a recently published book on Nigeria the author tells how, whilst cannibalism was common in that country up to recent years, it has practically ceased since the introduction of pigs. In brief, now-a-days the Nigerian natives prefer pork.

This reference to pork naturally turns the thoughts to Pinkettes—most perfect corrective of liveriness, bilious headaches, intestinal constipation, etc., well as aid to digestion. Besides, there is nothing better than Pinkettes to keep the skin clear, the eyes bright, the breath pure. Chemists everywhere sell them.

TO-MORROW'S RACES

PARI-MUTUEL OFFER TO PUNTERS

NARROWED COURSE MAY AFFECT PONIES IN SIXTH RACE

MY NOMINATIONS FOR RACE-COERS

(By "Captain Foster")

The racing to-morrow promises to be very open, with the possible exception of the second race, the Jordan Handicap (First Section), in which I think the top-weighted Racing Pluck has an outstanding chance of winning, unless the distance proves too far for him. If he, however, reproduces the form he displayed in the Junk Bay Handicap at the last Meeting, I cannot see him beaten.

The two Australian events (Cantala Handicap and Canberra Handicap) should provide the spectators with plenty of excitement, as I think we shall be treated with close finishes, especially in the Cantala Handicap, where form is better known. Able Amazon, I understand, is a nonstarter in the Canberra Handicap, in which case the weight of all the other ponies will be increased by seven pounds.

I expect to see a very large field in the Kimberley Handicap, confined to "D" Class ponies, over a distance of six furlongs, and I am afraid that, if the majority of the entrants elect to start, the race will play an important part in the result of the race. The course has been narrowed all round so as not to interfere with the turf which ordinarily forms the going next to the rails, and in consequence, ponies that get off best at the start will have more than the accepted advantage usually associated with a quick beginning.

The entries for the Jordan Handicap, confined to "D" Class ponies are only four more in number, yet this handicap has been split into two races (first and second sections) and the field in each event will not therefore be unduly large.

Before discussing each race in extenso, I would like to refer to a further innovation of the Hongkong Jockey Club, that is that the Meeting to-morrow will see the introduction of a $2 Pari-Mutuel (win and place) instead of the customary $5 ticket, which has been in force for more years than I can remember. The lower cost for a ticket will, I am sure, prove highly popular with race-goers and, if anything, I am prepared to see a much larger turn-over in the Pari-Mutuel counters for the future.

NATHAN HANDICAP.
An old favourite in King's Bounty will make his appearance in this race. In the hands of Mr. Davis, and I think he will run well. Macaroni, however, is my fancy although his stable companion, Gladiator, will press him very close at the finish. New Star is a pony I consider requires watching if he starts here. Wins here I expect great things from this animal before the season closes. Don has not been seen in front for some time but a review of his races in the spring shows that he has been competing against "A" Class ponies. His demotion to "B" Class with 146 lbs in this race should make him dangerous.

JORDAN HANDICAP (FIRST SECTION).
I fully expect Racing Pluck to account for this race, and do not propose to look further for the winner. I hear most favourable reports of National Day, and understand the stable connections are more than hopeful of seeing him flashing past the winning post in the first position. I am, however, very partial to King's Parade, and Helter Skelter, and shall not be surprised to see them finish in the place positions.

CANTALA HANDICAP.
I prefer the chances of The Goose vis-a-vis Australian Boy, and expect to see a great race between them. Empire Day is fancied but the chances of Roy Morn, a recently demoted pony, must not be ignored. Both these animals are usually ridden by Mr. Deitz and I presume he will be riding the one which he considers as having the better prospect. St. Joan, on her last running, must be in at the death and I like her winning chances as much as the first mentioned two.

AUSTIN PLATE.
Ribble and Soldier of Germany will both be certain starters for

They Say

THAT Atlas has a leg.
THAT he will be out training for sometime.
THAT the Kong Stable has two very fine looking Derby Grifflins.
THAT the Brown is not unlike Polar Star in appearance.
THAT he is a high class animal.
THAT the Chestnut is also a very breezy animal.
THAT in some quarters she is preferred to the Brown.

this race, and the finish should be close, my preference being for Ribble. Budge should finish third position.

CARNARVON STAKES.

The Bodega appeals most strongly and accordingly he has my vote for the first place. He will I think be followed home by Delightful Chance and Little Beauty. I liked Little Beauty's gallop last Wednesday morning and I make him a good each way bet.

KIMBERLEY HANDICAP.

The largest field of the day will face the starter for this race and I can foresee a scramble for the first three furlongs, if not longer. Bistre, Flying Tourist, Lemberg, Racing Boy, The Tiger, Valorous and Wayward Stag are all fast animals in this class. The luck of the race will be the deciding factor, my fancy is Valorous with Racing Boy, Lemberg and The Tiger most dangerous.

CANBERRA HANDICAP.
I understand that Able Amazon will not start at the meeting. Her absence from the field will make the race very open indeed, and I shall not be surprised to see the best race and finish of the day here. We have seen Nell Gwyn and Just That in action already; they are both well and should show improved form to-morrow. They must both be concerned in the finish, and I have a feeling that the animal which finishes in front of this pair will be returned the winner. Bag Tor, Bronze Era and Racing Heart start their Autumn season in this race. They are all good and capable of extending Nell Gwyn and Just That. Racing Heart strikes me as having a pull in the weights to a slight extent. He is known to be well and his stable connections are confident that he will give a good account of himself in the race.

JORDAN HANDICAP.

Vago is my choice for this race, the distance being too far to suit Hey Tor. Colombo should be prominent at the finish, and Shaughraun will be there or thereabouts.

SECOND DAY.

My fancies will appear in these columns on Tuesday next, but, of course, the race of the day will be the Double Tenth Plate, in which Diana Bay, Trenbridge and Soldier of Britain will face the starter. I hear all is not well with Diana Bay but hope that the rumour is groundless, and that she will take her position at the barrier at the appointed time. Diana Bay won the identical race last year but the opposition next Wednesday will be much more formidable. Soldier of Britain can "shift" and, if he gets off well, will take a lot of catching. He also has a condition in his favour, as both Diana Bay and Trenbridge have only recently returned from the North and are therefore not sufficiently "tuned" up to give of their best.

FINALISTS.—R.Q.M.S. Jarman (left) and L/Cpl. Davies, who will meet in the final of the Area Inter-Unit singles tennis championship. (Photo: Moe Cheung).

CAPTAIN'S MESSAGE

"BEST TEAM IN RECENT YEARS"

DEPARTURE THIS MORNING

(By "Veritas")

Accompanied by many expressions of goodwill from a large number of well-wishers who had wharf to bid adieu, the Hongkong Interport cricket team sailed down the harbour this morning on board the Empress of Asia, bound for Shanghai.

The thirteen players, all reporting themselves perfectly fit, were in the best of spirits, and all expressed themselves eager for the approaching Interport.

They realise that they are confronted with a big task in disposing of the strong Shanghai batting side on the easy paced wickets which can be expected in Shanghai.

Mr. Harry Owen-Hughes, captain elect, confessed this morning in a farewell interview that Shanghai certainly appeared stronger than Hongkong in batting, but he felt the Colony team held the advantage in attack.

He felt perfectly confident in his bowlers and expected to see the variety of the attack prove good enough to get Shanghai out.

SPLENDIDLY EQUIPPED.

"I regard this team as being splendidly equipped all round, and is undoubtedly one of the best teams we have sent to Shanghai in recent years."

Obviously, added Mr. Owen-Hughes, we are going up there to do our best, and if that proves sufficient to give us the victory, we shall be perfectly satisfied.

"I know we shall have a good time there," he added, "that goes without saying. But as to the result of the Interport, we are merely hoping."

I learnt this morning that in the event of Tam Pearce playing in the Interport, he will probably captain the side. Yesterday a rumour was current that he would not be making the trip, but it was later disproved.

THE PLAYERS.

The thirteen players who embarked on the Empress of Asia this morning were:

H. Owen-Hughes, T. E. Pearce, T. A. Pearce, I. McInnes, Lieut. J. P. Williams, Rev. H. V. Baines, Lieut. C. C. Garthwaite, A. H. Madar, A. R. Minu, G. S. Dunkley, E. J. R. Mitchell, F. D. Pereira, and G. R. M. Ricketts.

The probable team to play Shanghai will be—H. Owen-Hughes, T. A. Pearce, I. McInnes, Rev. Baines, Lieut. Garthwaite, A. H. Madar, A. R. Minu, F. D. Pereira, G. S. Dunkley, E. J. R. Mitchell, and G. R. M. Ricketts.

HONGKONG'S PROBLEM.

This means that Hongkong are in a position to call on six good bowlers. Much will depend on Pereira, Garthwaite, T. A. Pearce and Minu, but in addition there is Ricketts. McInnes and Owen-Hughes.

Hongkong's biggest disadvantage is that the local season has only just started and very few players have yet "got their eye in". Happily, those batsmen from whom much is expected have shown promising form in the trials. Owen Hughes and Pearce have both been making runs easily, and McInnes has batted with impressive steadiness. If blessed with an easy paced wicket there is no reason why Hongkong should not make plenty of runs. There are seven batsmen capable of making 50 or more if they can capture the pace of the wicket early on.

In any case a good sporting match is promised, and come what may, the local players can be depended upon not to disgrace themselves.

Last Four In U.S. Women's Golf Championship

MRS. VARE TO PLAY HOLDER

Philadelphia, Oct. 4.
Mrs. Collett Vare, Miss Virginia Van Wie (holder), Miss D. Traung and Mrs. Hill are the semi-finalists in the United States Women's Golf Championship.

According to the draw they will play as follows:

Mrs. Vare v Miss Van Wie
Miss Traung v Mrs. Hill

The only surprise in to-day's quarter-final matches was the elimination of Mrs. Cheney, the American Curtis Cup player, who lost to Mrs. Hill by one hole.

Mrs. Collett Vare, who has so far met with outstanding success in her effort to "come back" in big competitive golf, had another very easy game against Miss Well, whom she beat by 6 and 5, while Miss Virginia Van Wie, who has also displayed magnificent form, beat Miss Frances Williams by 5 and 4.

Miss Traung was not particularly extended by Mrs. Donner, the New Jersey competitor, winning 3 and 2, but Mrs. Hill only just ousted Mrs. Cheney in an interesting game.—Reuter.

ARMY TENNIS FINALISTS

JARMAN TO MEET DAVIES

KEEN MATCHES YESTERDAY

Lance-Corporal Davies, who plays right half for the South Wales Borderers first division football team, yesterday qualified for the final of the Area Inter-Unit (Other Ranks) singles tennis championship, when he defeated C.S.M. Lewis of the Borderers in the semi-final at Sookunpoo.

His opponent in the final will be R.Q.M.S. Jarman, who eliminated Drummer Jones, the Borderers inside left.

All four semi-finalists were Borderers, and both matches went to the advantage set.

Jarman started in great form against "Hooker" Jones, taking the first set to love, but Jones recovered nicely after this, and settled down to produce his strokes more

LOCAL SOCCER FIXTURES

VERY HEAVY PROGRAMME

INTERPORT IN FEBRUARY

(By "Veritas")

The printed list of fixtures of the Hongkong Football Association for the 1934-35 season has now been published.

In addition to the league competitions, the dates for the important representative, shield, cup and Interport matches are as follows:

October 10, Governor's Cup
November 11 (or 12) Armistice Day match
December 8 Lal Wah Cup match
December 12 Sunday Herald match

December 25 and 26 Sunday Herald matches
January 1 Children's Playground Association match
January 5 and 6 Shield, 1st round

January 20 Shield, 2nd round
January 27 Interport Trial
February 4 to 9 Interport matches

March 16 Shield Semi-Finals
March 30 Lal Wah Cup Final
April 13 Shield Final

April 22 Sunday Herald Final
The Interport, of course, is too far away yet to prepare a programme, but according to reports from the North Tientsin are unable to send a team down here this year, so that Shanghai will have plenty of opportunity of meeting local representative teams in addition to the Interport match.

These are almost certain to include the Combined Chinese and United Services.

fluently, and with increased effect. Jones fought back to level terms by taking the second set at 6-3, but once again Jarman proved his superiority and went to his points with the loss of one game.

CLOSE GAME.
Davies and Lewis were concerned in a three-set match which involved 28 games. The footballer snatched the first set at 6-4, but Lewis was plainly on top in the second, which he won to two after obtaining an early break through of service.

The final set was evenly contested, both players effecting some excellent shots after long rallies. Davies finally stood the strain better, and obtained the winning point after the set had extended to ten games.

No Successor To Queen Helen Jacobs

DIFFICULT POSITION WOULD ARISE IF SHE TURNED PROFESSIONAL

New York, Sept. 29.
Within a very few minutes after Helen Jacobs defeated Sarah Palfrey for the national women's tennis championship, marking her third straight victory and permanent possession of the titular cup—she was busy denying rumours that she will turn professional.

Miss Jacobs was very strong and emphatic. Under no circumstances, she said, would she leave amateur ranks. But the rumours set experts to wondering who would take the California girl's place if she should exercise woman's prerogative and become a professional.

A survey of available United States material reveals no one of championship calibre. Miss Jacobs moved calmly and easily through the tournament and won the title without ever being excited.

POSSIBLE SUCCESSORS.
Many have advanced Carolyn Babcock, another Californian, as a successor to Miss Jacobs. Miss Babcock is a good player and mechanically her game is sound, but in the critical opinion of those who have watched her, she does not seem to have the extra urge that raises competitors to championship levels.

Sarah Palfrey, from Massachusetts, play a quiet sort of game that is very good, but not always good enough. She seems to have reached her pinnacle.

Mrs. Dorothy Andrus, the United States No. 4 in rank, is a good tennis player until she begins to worry about her shots. Then she goes to places and frets herself into defeat.

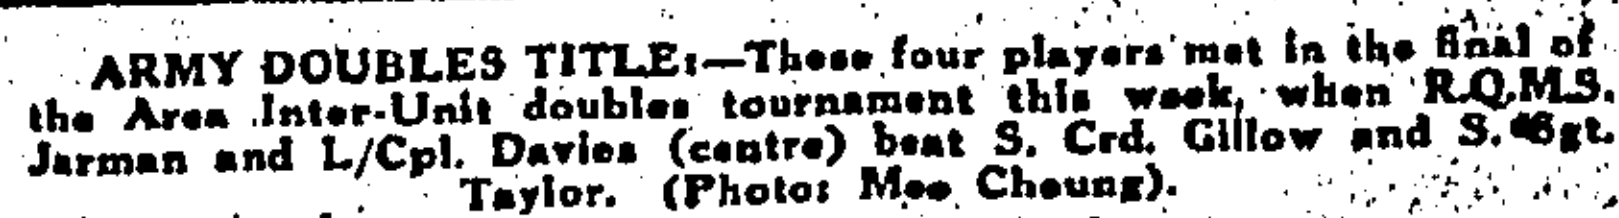

On the English side it is probable that Dorothy Round would be the best. Miss Round did not play at Forest Hills here. Miss Andrus, Betty Nuthall and Katherine Stammers did. They turned in emphatic. Under no circumstances, she said, would she leave amateur ranks. But the rumours set experts to wondering who would take the California girl's place if she should exercise woman's prerogative and become a professional.

The champion's play was more extended in the semi-final match with Miss Babcock than any other. Miss Babcock deserved caution forcing rallies in a do-or-die manner and displaying a series of running backhand shots that looked troublesome. This did not keep Miss Jacobs from winning, however, and in easy fashion.

BEACH CLUB GIRL

By MABEL McELLIOTT

CHAPTER XXII

It was too late now for Boots to pretend she hadn't seen Isabel. The other girl's warm, welcoming hand was in hers. Her bright eyes were full of friendly interest. It was as if the months between their last meeting did not exist.

"Why, Boots dear," Isabel said again and again. "But how terribly nice! And I had been thinking of you! But I didn't know you were in New York. I hadn't the least idea."

"We were to have gone to Florida before this," Boots offered vaguely, walking along beside her, "but we're still out on Long Island." Out on Long Island, "sounded rather better on the whole, than 'Astoria.' Isabel was polite; Isabel did not ask where on Long Island the young Lunds were living. Boots blessed her for the omission.

"Will you have lunch with me?" Isabel bubbled. "I was, hating to eat alone—you know me of old—and practically starving to death and all that."

"I was just about to stop for luncheon myself," Boots said brightly. "But I forgot about it, shopping."

It was a lie. Of course it was a lie. But she couldn't tell Isabel the truth; couldn't say she had been looking for a job in Lacy's.

"This old suit," she said with a rippling laugh she hoped fervently was convincing, "is positively moldy, and had to get something to wear."

Things for the south, too, although they're not showing much in that line yet. Too early."

Isabel nodded sympathetically. She had her arm linked in that of her friend. They were opposite one of those big, plate-glass windows so dear to feminine hearts. Isabel, guiding her, wheeled expertly through the shopping throngs, steered her through the revolving doors. Boots protested faintly.

"Please take time for just a bite, please!" Isabel begged prettily. Boots, thinking of the long winter in her flat change purse, shuddered inwardly. But the next words reassured her.

"It's my birthday. I want to splurge a bit. Daddy gave me $20," said Isabel, answering the black-frocked footman's nod and following her to a table for two. "Let's have the creamed chicken and the double chocolate ice cream cake. Member how we used to love it?"

So it was Isabel's party after all. Over their heaped plates the two girls reviewed, explained, murmured.

"You haven't seen your mother?" at last Isabel asked with gravity. "At last Isabel asked with gravity."

Boots shook her head. In spite of her manifold efforts her eyes swam in a mist. Her voice thickened. "I haven't really—dared," she said.

"Daddy's so mad at me. I wrote her twice. She didn't answer. I think she doesn't dare." Isabel told her her own eyes watering in impulsive sympathy. "I do think your father is being mean about it. Why, people elope all the time. There's nothing terrible about it. He's behaving like a stone age father."

"I don't blame him," Boots said thickly, painfully, glancing down at her slim linked hands. "It was a shock. If I had it to do over again."

"You'd tell them all about it. I know," supplied Isabel, trying to restore a more cheerful atmosphere. "But you know what I'd do if I were in your place? I'd go up there some day, see my mother and fix everything up. Just don't pay any attention to him," advised Isabel gaily. "And once your mother sees you—why, she misses you frightfully, you can imagine everything will be all right."

"I could kill myself when I think of hurting her that way," Boots said thoughtfully.

Isabel put her hand. "You take the train up there some morning when your father is safely out of the house," she said. "Everything will be simply fine. See if it isn't."

Boots, thinking of her empty purse of the fare to Larchmont, nodded dimly. She couldn't tell Isabel about that, though. There were some things you simply kept to yourself.

They clung to each other on parting. Isabel in a girlish jumble of warnings and whispered affection, Boots as a drowning man who sees his proverbial last straw fast disappearing.

"We must see each other soon again," was the burden of Isabel's song. Boots, agreeing, still felt the barrier between them. The old foothold could not be regained, however strong the bond was. "Is some new life was too confused and too uncertain for plans. At length she promised to telephone, to write. Her own address she did not give. They were moving any day now, she said.

It was difficult after all this to go back to the shabby flat. Somehow it had never seemed so morbid, so desolately run-down-at-the-loose before. Gloria was at home, spreading pattern papers and a gaudy purple and red silk remnant of printed silk all over the living room floor.

"Russ called," Gloria looked up to any abstractedly. "He said to tell you he thought he had something lined up and he wouldn't be home for supper."

Boots sat down in the tufted plush chair, the springs of which were already sagging. The collector had not received the full amount for this chair up to date. She took off her hat and ran her fingers nervously through her hair. If Russ weren't home until late it meant an entire evening in Gloria's company. The prospect, especially after Isabel's amusing chatter, was not high unbearable. Russ made this life tolerable for her. Without him there was simply nothing.

She hung up her things neatly and began to mend her other pair of books. If there were one more book about, she thought wildly, finishing that task. If there were a piano, of her sister-in-law's scissors met her ears. No wonder people in these little boxes of flat sought the movies as a means of escape. There was nothing else to do, nothing else to look forward to.

"Shall I fix things for dinner?" Gloria shrugged. "Well, I got some sausage and there's a can of corn."

Somehow Boots got through the rest of the afternoon; the early fall evening closed in. Lights winked on in all the square windows. Children huddled around a bonfire in a vacant lot at the end of the block. The prospect was dull and uninteresting, but Boots from her perch eyed the small struggling figures milling about the scurrying flares, tasting the good smell of wood smoke and burning fingers in their attempts to take toasted marshmallows from the end of the stick.

Up at Larchmont, at this time of year, leaves were heaped in great piles for burning. Her mother, in her old gray sweater and a well-worn tweed skirt, would be taking, too, in the lower garden, setting a match to the neat piles. Boots felt a lump in her throat at the thought. Isabel's words had tugged at her heartstrings. Her mother did miss her, fretted over her. Why, sometimes at night she woke up in a cold fright, shivering at the thought that perhaps she would never see her mother again.

She shook off the sick fancy. Russ would do fine things, make something big of himself. Then she wouldn't be ashamed to go back home, face everybody. She had been foolish, hadn't given her marriage sufficient consideration beforehand. But she would show them some time that it had all been for the best.

Lou came in and lights went on curiously, brilliantly all over the small square room. The smell of frying meat and bubbling corn permeated the apartment.

"Aren't you hungry?" "No. Not very. I—" Boots hesitated over the word. "I met an old friend. She took me to lunch."

Gloria's eyes lighted avidly. "The Ritz, huh? Guess you can't see our cats." Her face looked mean, looked curious in the bright glare of the overhead fixture.

"No," Boots said quietly. "Just a tea-room."

Lou ate quickly, noisily, not joining in the conversation. He did not believe in "jawing" at meal time, he often said. Eating was a serious business.

Boots offered to wash the dishes and Gloria, anxious to get back to her bustle, did not protest. At nine o'clock when she was hanging the last pan on its hooks she heard Russ at the door. He came in briskly, bringing a breath of cool, fresh air with him.

"The boy wonder!" He thumped himself on the chest. Boots ran into his arms. "You've got something?"

"Yep!" He held her off at arm's length. "A club at Miami. Better than the one last year."

Boots danced in sheer excitement. "Miami! I've never been there." "Hail on a minute, kid. I can't take you with me. You'll have to stay behind—for a while at least."

UNSETTLED MARKET YESTERDAY

The following reports on the New York stock market have been received through Messrs. Swan, Culbertson and Fritz: The Wall Street Journal report on yesterday's markets: Stocks were unsettled, due to the wide break in California shares which was largely owing to short selling on fears of the election of Mr. Upton Sinclair as Governor of California. Towards the close, however, selling pressure eased, and many issues staged a rally. Bonds were irregularly lower, excepting United States Government issues, which improved on good buying by Banks, Insurance Companies and other institutions. Stocks on the Curb Exchange were downward. Wheat prices rallied, due to reports of a heavy flour business in the East and in the South-West.

S. C. & F. New York office: The stock market recovered well from selling early in the session. The Standard Oil Co. of Indiana has reduced prices by 1 cent a gallon. The United Fruit Co.'s earnings for the 9 months ended September 29th totalled $10,621,000, against $9,087,000 during the corresponding period of last year. Business done: $10,000.

New York and Chicago commodity reports received through Messrs. Swan, Culbertson and Fritz:

Cotton: The possibility that there will be no pool sales was an encouraging factor and the market showed some recuperation. We believe that the market has discounted the considerable increase in Monday's government crop estimate and, if the report is not unexpectedly higher, a better market is probable. It is reported that bids for pool cotton totalled 800,000 bales, but not over 100,000 bales were sold, if any.

Grain: Chicago advises that the upturn was due to heavy flour and export sales being reported. The tone was better. Optimism regarding the long-term outlook persists in some quarters and the market appears to be technically sound, but we consider that some decided improvement in foreign news is necessary for any substantial recovery.

CHINESE EDITOR FINED

INDECENT MATTER IN ADVERTISEMENT

Wong Ho-in, editor of the Ping Man Yat Po, a Chinese daily, was fined $250, or three months' hard labour, by Mr. Thomson in the Central Police Court this morning on a summons for inserting two indecent advertisements in his journal on September 9.

The case called on Wednesday, but the defendant was absent and the Magistrate, Mr. Hamilton, issued a warrant for his arrest. The defendant surrendered himself at the Central Police Station.

The entries are from the following countries: United States, 17; England, 18; Holland, 5; France, Australia, and New Zealand, 4 each; Italy, 2; Denmark, Germany, India, Ireland, New Guinea and Sweden, one each.

It is, of course, not certain that all these entrants will report at the starting point.—British Wireless.

BACK AGAIN

LONDON WELCOMES THE PREMIER

London, Oct. 4. When the Prime Minister reached London to-day after his three months' holiday, on doctor's orders, in Canada, he was met by the Lord Chancellor, Lord Sankey; the Foreign Secretary, Sir John Simon; the Dominions Secretary, Mr. J. H. Thomas; many officials and friends, and a large crowd of Londoners who gave him a warm welcome.

Mr. MacDonald said he was glad to be back and felt much better after his holiday. He will to-morrow be examined by his physician, Lord Horder, and his oculist, Sir Steward Duke. —British Wireless.

White Sox in 1902 after he had pitched them to a pennant in 1901. He first played in the major leagues in 1893, and besides being a first class pitcher, he established himself as a tremendous hitter. He was the last of the great pitcher-hitters.—Reuter.

FEWER TRAFFIC FATALITIES

LATEST HOME FIGURES ENCOURAGING

London, Oct. 4.

For some time, the Transport Ministry, with the object of impressing on the public the gravity of the traffic problem, have published weekly lists of road fatalities. Many drastic measures have been introduced recently to ensure greater care on the part of road-users, both motorists and pedestrians.

It is too soon to gauge their effect, but the figures published to-day are at least encouraging, for they show that 30 fewer lives were lost on the roads of Britain last week than in the week preceding—131 against 161—and was the smallest total for the last five months. The number of injured also showed a decrease.—British Wireless.

JAPAN'S POLICIES OPPOSED

KWANTUNG AGITATION ORGANISED

Dairen, Oct. 5.

Agitation, organised by officials of the Kwantung Headquarters in opposition to a plan recently approved by the Japanese government for the reorganisation of the Japanese Administrative system in Manchuria, is increasing. The whole staffs of the Southern Manchurian Railway, and various Japanese Government organs in Manchuria have also joined the movement.

The Kwantung authorities will take advantage of the coming extraordinary session of the Japanese Diet to press for the revision of the plan with more vigorous effort.—Central News.
